Saturday night swam through 20-foot swells and tired waves to drop them on decks of wallowing Laymore which left here under tow to Clifton Wednesday but was caught in violent storm.

HODGE-PODGE of mortar bombs in hold of Laymore was seen Sunday when ship was towed to Rocky Point after four days of relentless pounding by towering seas and gales reaching up to 70 m.p.h.

Her 17-man crew was forced to take to life raft when towline to Clifton parted and rudder jammed. She had no power as her engines were being prepared for conversion to oceanographic vessel.

Navy Divers Capture Abandoned TNT Ship

By RON SUDLOW

Part-time navy divers, in a daring swim, tamed a bucking, bounding munitions-laden ship which was abandoned two days earlier off Tofo.

The saga of the CNAV Laymore ended in a sheltered bay here Sunday because of the daring swim by the divers.

And for the navy, today was "pretty well routine" as unloading of the auxiliary vessel's cargo of ammunition commenced.

The five-man diving team, under leadership of Lieut. Terry Milne, 26, of 128 Sea Drive, Brentwood, dropped over the side of destroyer-escort HMCS Mackenzie Saturday night. Laymore, by this time, had drifted 65 miles south of Cape Flattery and was less than 30 miles from land.

ROCKING VIOLENTLY

She was still rocking violently in the 20-foot swells and her decks were awash. But the wind had dropped.

Cdr. H. J. Wade ordered the warship to pass within 100 yards of the wallowing Laymore—still loaded with 149 tons of obsolete naval ammunition.

The Mackenzie had been standing by the auxiliary vessel ever since it came to aid in the rescue of its 17-man crew Thursday evening. A boat crew and a diving team had been standing by ready to get a line to the disabled ship for more than two days.

The divers got the call when the wind abated Saturday evening. Other members of the team were AB Andy Stearn, AB Ray Cleugh, PO Alexander Roger and Sub-Lieut. Bruce Johnston.

"Our weather reports indicated more storms for the area," Lieut. Milne said.

WIRE BRIEFS

Transit Strike Over

MONTREAL (CP) — Maintenance-service employees of the Montreal Transportation Commission today voted acceptance of a revised wage offer and the strike of a total of 3,900 workers ended. (See story page 6.)

New Russ Space Test

'Little Selma March'

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (UPI) — A group of 50 Negroes, some wearing black armbands, set out on a "Little Selma march" today through rural countryside to commemorate the slayings of three civil rights workers one year ago.

Polish Leader Ill

WARSAW (UPI) — Polish Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomułka is "gravely ill," Western diplomatic sources said today.

More Bridges Bombed

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese planes pounded bridges, barracks and other targets in North Viet Nam today. In the ground fighting, 27 government troops and 20 Viet Cong were killed in four sharp clashes, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

PEACE TEAM GOING AHEAD

Mission Ignores Rebuffs by Reds

Chou Slams British Plan

LONDON (UPI) — The proposed Viet Nam peace team of the Commonwealth prime ministers pressed plans today for its mission despite snubs from China and North Viet Nam.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai Sunday called the mission a "manoeuvre in support of the United States peace talk hoax." The Hanoi government said it was aimed at carrying out "a peaceful negotiation swindle."

NO OFFICIAL REPLIES

A spokesman for the mission said messages have been sent to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Washington proposing in detail the timetable for visits by the mission.

He noted that official replies have not been received from any of the governments involved.

Diplomatic sources here said that if China delivers an official rejection, Wilson will attempt to get China's reasons on the public record.

None of the four delegates representing members of the mission at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference here would comment on what would happen if the mission is rebuffed.

But it is generally believed that it would at least go to Geneva to discuss the outcome with United Nations Secretary-General Thant.

It was hoped that official replies to the mission messages would be received before the Commonwealth conference ends on Friday so that the mission could spell out its plans.

JOINT MESSAGE

It is believed the peace mission might also receive a joint Commonwealth message to take to the five capitals.

The New China news agency described Britain's Prime Minister Wilson as a "nitwit" in a bitter attack.

Chou En-lai Sunday night ridiculed the mission and said it was doomed to "ignominious failure."

Chou said in Cairo that because Britain supported U.S. policy in Viet Nam, the mission was just a "manoeuvre in support of the U.S. peace talk hoax."

BLAST AT DINNER

Chou's remarks came at a dinner hosted by United Arab Republic President Nasser.

"This is not the first time that Britain has engaged in such activities, which are diametrically opposed to the position explicitly set forth again and again by the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front (Viet Cong)," he declared.

'MET WITH FAILURE'

"Such actions in the past have met with ignominious failure and will not fare any better in the future."

(In London, British newspapers said the rejection by the Asian Reds would torpedo the Commonwealth proposal. "It now seems certain that further preparations will be called off," one newspaper said.)

The North Vietnamese statement rejecting the mission was entitled: "Wilson, a wilful aide of Johnson."

16 Injured

In Cafe Blast

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — At least 16 persons were injured, two critically, after a basement explosion tore through the floor of a highway restaurant Sunday night, about 12 miles south of here.

In critical condition in Toronto at the Hospital for Sick Children are Catherine Little, 14, of Hamilton, and her sister Sain, 13. They had burns to 80 per cent of their bodies.

Canada Gov't Gives $4 Million to U.N.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada pledged $4,000,000 today to the United Nations to help restore the solvency of the world body.

External Affairs Minister Martin coupled the pledge in the Commons with the statement that he doesn't exclude the possibility of a supplementary voluntary contribution.

"The Canadian government's pledge is made without prejudice to our support for the policy of collective financial responsibility for duly authorized peacekeeping operations," Mr. Martin said.

The UN now is in debt by more than $100,000,000 because of refusal of some UN members to pay their assessed share of peacekeeping costs.

LONDON (Reuters) — The British government has pledged a sum equivalent to $10,000,000 to help the United Nations finances and peacekeeping arrangements, it was announced today.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the House of Commons Britain's contribution is an act of faith in the UN.

Hydro Shows Gain In All But Transit

VANCOUVER (CP) — Increased profits in everything but its urban transit system are listed in the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority annual report.

The report, released here today, said B.C. Hydro's gross revenue for the year ending March 31 was $153,307,283—up $13,674,482 from the year before. Hydro co-chairmen H. L. Keenleyside and Gordon M. Shrum said in the report the year was one of "notable activity, progress and achievement in keeping with and contributing to the dynamic growth of the provincial economy."

Free-Loading Guests Really Load Up!

VANCOUVER (CP) — The confetti had hardly settled and the honeymoon was barely over when the bride and groom discovered that a few of their wedding guests were thieves.

John and Ann Wilksen returned from their honeymoon Saturday and discovered about 120 of their 150 wedding presents were missing.

The groom said his and his wife's family had arranged to transport the gifts from the reception to the couple's home.

"People in five different cars began to load up presents," he said.

"Three of the cars got where they were supposed to be. The other two, which carried most of the presents, didn't."

"I think what happened is that each side of the family thought the thieves belonged to the other side..."

"People who saw them said they were dressed up and looked like they belonged."

QOR Cadets Win Best Corps Trophy

Queen's Own Rifles, 2483 Esquimalt Cadet Corps, quickly marched to winning position Saturday in the annual inter-corps sunset ceremonies on the grounds of the Legislative Buildings.

With the corps at attention, RSM Ronald Myers, 18, received the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' Trophy for best performing group during the three-week display sponsored annually by the city of Victoria.

The groups taking part in the flag lowering ceremonies this year, in addition to the QOR Corps, were: Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow; Canadian Scottish 2136 Corps; Royal Canadian Army 5th. Mod. Battery 2289 Corps; and Royal Canadian Air Cadets, 89 Kinsmen Corps.

The flag lowering ceremonies, sponsored by the City of Victoria, have been carried on for a number of years. More than 400 watched Saturday's final ceremony.

Officials attending the combined parade were Alderman Robert Baird, representing the city, Sqdn. Ldr. E. A. McGowan, chairman of the Greater Victoria United Cadet Services, and military officers representing the three services.

The groups taking part in the flag lowering ceremonies this year, in addition to the QOR Corps, were: Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow; Canadian Scottish 2136 Corps; Royal Canadian Army 5th. Mod. Battery 2289 Corps; and Royal Canadian Air Cadets, 89 Kinsmen Corps.

ADVISED PRESIDENTS

U.S. Financier B. Baruch Dies

By RAY KOHN
NEW YORK (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, 94, financier and adviser to U.S. presidents, died Sunday night of a heart attack.
Baruch displayed his financial acumen early in life. After graduating from City College of New York, he began a 53-a-week job and earned more than $1,000,000 by the time he was 30.
He went on to amass many more millions, but lost interest in money for "money's sake" and used it for large donations toward medical research, education and charity.
Born in Camden, S.C., Baruch was taken north by his parents when he was 11.
Baruch was a Jew, of Portuguese-Spanish extraction on his mother's side and German on his father's.
During the First World War, President Woodrow Wilson named Baruch chairman of the war industries board.

BARUCH

OFFERS OWN MONEY

In 1939, with Hitler menacing all of Europe, Baruch offered more than $3,000,000 of his own money to help bring the U.S. army up to date.
After the war Baruch mainly served the government on commissions.
President Harry S. Truman appointed him American delegate to the then new United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. He developed the "Baruch plan" for atomic energy control, but it was rejected by the Russians.
The financier was credited with helping President Herbert Hoover obtain postponement of Allied war debts and of being influential in establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Baruch also was a consultant and friend of presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Normally a Democrat, Baruch supported Eisenhower in 1952 after a coolness developed between Baruch and President Truman. Baruch showed his displeasure by declining to serve on the Democratic party's finance committee in 1948.

He survived one of his closest friends—Sir Winston Churchill—by only five months. Their friendship lasted nearly 50 years.

They exchanged visits regularly and corresponded on a scale unusual in this century. Among the personal papers which Baruch gave Princeton University were more than 700 letters from Churchill to his greatest American friend.

Through Churchill, Baruch befriended another dynamic Londoner, the late Lord Beaverbrook.

Baruch's wife died in 1938. Two of their three children survive—B. M. Baruch Jr. and Mrs. Robert Samsstag. A daughter, Miss Belle Wilcox Baruch, died in 1964 at the age of 64.

RABBIT CHASE ENDS IN DEATH FOR CHILDREN

ODESSA, Tex. (UPI)—A young brother and sister trying to catch a rabbit in a steel pipe, were electrocuted Sunday.

V. W. Stacy, 35, said he was moving tall grass near their home, 12 miles northeast of Odessa when a rabbit ran from the grass. His children, Donald, 13, and Theresa Ann, 12, gave chase. The rabbit ran into the six-inch pipe.

The children sprayed a water hose into the pipe in an effort to get the rabbit out. When this failed Stacy said they upended the pipe which touched a power line.

Justice of the Peace J. A. Purfoy ruled accidental death by electrocution.

Johnson Seeks Ideas To Boost UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is reported to have asked his chief foreign policy advisers for constructive proposals to strengthen the United Nations which he could advance in a speech Saturday to a UN ceremonial meeting in San Francisco.

The session is scheduled to mark the 20th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter in San Francisco June 26, 1945.

Although Johnson said June 1 he planned to address the meeting, informants believe a final decision on whether to go will depend on whether Johnson feels he can make constructive proposals in the speech.

Among problems for which he seeks ideas is the controversy over UN financing which virtually paralyzed the last General Assembly session.

Russia and several other countries are in arrears on payments of UN peacekeeping assessments whose legality they dispute. The United States seeks to force them to pay up but the matter is stalemated and officials said they see no simple way out.

Learner Fined $25

Edith Speakman, 3370 Beach Drive, was fined $25 on charges of driving without insurance and driving without a licence.

She pleaded guilty in Spanish police court Thursday. She said she was learning to drive her husband's car when involved in a collision in the 1000 block Tattersal, June 5.

Police Want Information On Rented Truck

Police are still looking for anyone who saw a rented truck used to transport $1,185,165 of stolen money to Victoria around May 19 or 20.

The truck was hired from Avis Rent-a-Truck System of Canada in Victoria. Police believe the truck was driven to Vancouver where the loot was picked up and then returned to Victoria.

The money, stolen in a robbery on a CPR warehouse in Vancouver last April, was recovered last Friday in a rented garage in this city.

The garage was rented May 19, the same day as the truck was hired.

Drug Victims Urged To Use Feet, Hooks

COLOGNE, West Germany (Reuters)—Thalidomide babies born without arms should be encouraged to write with their feet and to use hooks rather than artificial hands, 2,500 parents of thalidomide babies were told here Sunday.

Dr. E. Marquardt of Heidelberg University's orthopaedic clinic gave the advice at the first international congress of parents of thalidomide children.

He said the babies should be encouraged to play and work with their feet as much as possible since they could be trained at that stage to perform any task normally done by hand.

The children should write with their feet at school and wear artificial arms only at home. This would give them more self-confidence in public by letting them put their own limbs to work rather than relying on artificial aids, Marquardt said.

The congress was the first for thalidomide children, born after the mothers had taken thalidomide, a tranquillizer drug, during pregnancy.

Against Expert Advice

IN THE FACE OF ALMOST unanimous protests from professional planners and other informed persons, as well as substantial criticism from many residents, Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell has given governmental assent to the proposed subdivision of a large parcel of property lying east of John Dean Park in North Saanich.

The subdividers plan to cut the land into half-acre lots to accommodate 400 houses. Planned in a rural area in this fashion, such a program represents a classic example of sprawl development: an island of housing far from established facilities and promising many future problems for services such as water supply, sewage, traffic thoroughfares, schools and other requirements.

The estimates of the survey made by the Capital Region Planning Board in 1958 foresee a population of 250,000 in the Greater Victoria-Saanich Peninsula area by 1981—and it will eventually be far in excess of this. To accommodate such a large influx of residents while still preserving the green environment of Central and North Saanich it will be necessary to expand methodically from the existing areas of concentrated housing. Only in this way can we avoid the problems of sprawl, the hazards of overcrowding and the inevitable high costs of later correcting poor planning.

Now the Municipal Affairs Minister has committed us to what the experts see as a major planning error. Subject to certain conditions of quality housing, phasing, water and sewage services and a five per cent provision of parkland, the large subdivision plan can go ahead. It will be noted that within a matter of a few weeks, if North Saanich votes to become an organized municipality, this decision would have come within the responsibility of the reeve and council rather than the Minister of Municipal Affairs.

One of the dangers of the present consent is that it creates a precedent for a still larger concentrated subdivision proposed for an area farther north on the peninsula, and a smaller one suggested for the west shore. These, it is hoped, will be a matter for council decision and disposed of with regard for the advice of the professional planners.

This continent is dotted with expensive examples of areas which grew into heavily populated districts without the benefit of overall planning by persons having professional qualifications. Higher-than-necessary taxes, traffic problems, ribbon building, and congestion are among the prices that must be paid. The criterion for growth should be the eventual community good rather than immediate personal gain.

The Poor Pay More

AN INFORMED PANEL IN Washington has underscored one of the topsy-turvy facts of our credit-buying society. The poor, its members declared, pay more.

They pay more for food, for clothing, for furniture and for credit.

Because they have little cash, the poor frequently have to trade on credit at local stores. For the same reason they generally buy cheap furniture that often wears out before it is paid for. And because the low income family is a relatively poor risk, credit charges are higher for it.

So found the panel. Less specific were its recommendations of means to overcome the problem. A consensus indicated the need for education in buying and shopping, but the methods of conducting an educational campaign were declared far from simple.

Too often persons who needed instruction were suspicious of those seeking to provide it and many were too apathetic to take advantage of the instruction available.

The results of the panel study indicate once more the importance of action sought in various parts of Canada to let the users of credit know in simple form what they are paying, the rate of interest as well as the instalment payment.

Great Britain reportedly has found a formula to reduce the various forms of contract to terms which set out such information simply and clearly. Perhaps its application in the United States and Canada would assist the educational campaign advocated in Washington.

The important element in any such campaign should be concentration on how the poor can legally avoid the extra cost of living—initially, perhaps, by showing them what their buying habits cost above the cash sale price of the goods.

Are Potential Nurses Deterred?

MISS ALICE GIRARD, DEAN of the nursing faculty at the University of Montreal, has drawn attention to a problem growing more acute in her profession.

It is becoming difficult, says Miss Girard, to channel into nursing a sufficient number of capable young students to meet present and future needs. She points to the fact that at one time girls graduating from high school and seeking careers chose between teaching and nursing. Now a number of other professions offer opportunities to young women and in the last four years the 20 per cent of high school graduates who formerly went into nursing has shrunk to 10 per cent.

She suggests that recruiting be stimulated by making the profession more attractive to potential members and foresees the day when a division will be drawn between those trained and specializing in hospital and bedside care and others proceeding to teaching and other activities removed from patients.

Out of the Dark

AUTHORITIES AT THE BRONX Zoo have approved a "World of Darkness" building, to cost more than half a million dollars, as a means of showing their night-prowling reptiles, birds and mammals to day visitors. This seems laudable enough. But the method by which the nocturnal wanderers are to be forced into daytime performances is deplorable.

The technique is to turn on extremely bright lights at night so that daylight seems comparatively gloomy and the creatures reverse their metabolism accordingly.

Soon we expect the owls to complain that they haven't had a day's sleep in weeks, the cheetahs to change their snarls to yawns, and the night-blooming cactus with-bags under its eyes to be renamed "Sleepy Time Gal".

The High Costs of Fuzziness

THE signs suggest that before long President Johnson will be paying through the nose for one of his strangest and strongest traits. Because of his extreme secretiveness he has been trying to wage a major war in what can only be described as a furtive manner. But a furtive war is a contradiction in terms. Hence, the attempted furtiveness about the war in Viet Nam is increasingly generating confusion and division of council. In the Senate last week Sen. J. William Fulbright advocated a program of thinly concealed surrender, and most of the other participants in the debate were even more all over the lot. If anything, the confusion is still worse overseas.

At his press conference, Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara announced that the American troop strength in South Viet Nam would soon reach 70,000 to 75,000. But even at the last Pearl Harbor meeting an increase of troop strength to nearly 90,000 was decided upon. And this formerly planned figure has now been increased if the President has accepted the recommendations of his field commanders, recently conveyed through Ambassador Maxwell Taylor.

Bombing Closer to Hanoi

Again, the past week has seen bombing attacks on North Viet Nam of a rather new kind. Targets nearer to Hanoi, along the previously untouched main road into Northern Laos, have now begun to be hit. But the unfortunate defence secretary instead emphasized such points as the inclusion of petroleum stores among previous bombing targets—when he knows very well that the main fuel storage depots in North Viet Nam have never once been touched.

Yet again, Secretary McNamara cautiously admitted that eight or nine battalions of the North Vietnamese regular army were now present in South Viet Nam. This is another way of saying that the South has been invaded by an entire North Vietnamese division.

In reality, moreover, the chances are that the invasion is decidedly more massive. And it is also necessary to remember that a high percentage of the effectiveness in many of the allegedly local Viet Cong "main force" units are regular soldiers sent from the North as replacements.

Mystifications

It is hard to see what is gained by keeping every outline fuzzy, by surrounding every development and every intention with elaborate mystifications, by making the whole government behave, in short, like a gigantic, cumbersome squid.

It is very easy to see what is lost, however.

To see what is lost it is only necessary to cast one's mind back to the time before Pearl Harbor when President Roosevelt was preparing the country for the expected shock of a great war, or to the post-war years when President Truman was boldly making the giant steps innovations which still remain the foundations of U.S. foreign policy.

President Johnson has a team of subordinates every bit as brilliant and impressive as Roosevelt or Truman, had, and until now he has far more public support than either Roosevelt or Truman. But instead of demanding fuzziness and obfuscation, Roosevelt and Truman were clear and emphatic about the outlines of their problems, and they were equally emphatic and open about the right solutions.

Firm Leadership

With their strong teams in support—for the teams were also encouraged to be clear and emphatic and open—Roosevelt and Truman did great things in the face of extremely active, vocal and determined opposition. The combination of firm Presidential leadership, plus able and persuasive men in support of the president, was the real secret.

Commonwealth Conference

Menzies Carries the Ball

MANY of the Commonwealth leaders are seeking closer contact with one another through a co-ordinating Commonwealth Secretariat—a project put forward by Ghana's President Nkrumah.

Although this is intended to improve consultation, in fact it is proving to be one of the points of disagreement. Two points are at issue. First, the precise functions of the Secretariat, and, second, the nomination for the first holder of the office of Commonwealth Secretary-General.

No Political Role

Australia's prime minister, Sir Robert Menzies, is making a great deal of fuss about both these questions. Nevertheless, it would be surprising if there were not a wide measure of agreement once the prime ministers get down to details. In a sense Sir Robert has created his own bogey by suggesting that there is danger of the new Secretary-General being given powers which would make him resemble the UN Secretary-General rather than the Commonwealth's chief servant.

None of his colleagues has shown much desire to cast the Commonwealth Secretary-General for a political role. But Sir Robert appears to have convinced himself to the contrary. With so many "leftists" around (including, of course,

That combination can be achieved by President Johnson tomorrow morning. He certainly has the power to lead if he wants to use it, and he also has a team with the potential impact of the Roosevelt and Truman teams. As matters stand, however, the country, the Congress and our allies are increasingly troubled and bewildered, and what is almost worst, government morale is being dangerously undermined.

Censorship

Both in Saigon and behind the scenes here in Washington, the imposition of censorship for the Vietnamese war is being seriously discussed. There was merely voluntary censorship during the first great crises of the Korean war. In ordinary circumstances there should be no need for censorship now.

Yet official censorship with clear-cut rules would be decidedly preferable to the official obfuscation the President has imposed. For censorship cannot prevent the main outlets from emerging, and it cannot conceal the significance of the key facts. It is an inconvenience, but it is not a danger, whereas obfuscation and propagated bewilderment are decidedly dangerous.

By COLIN LEGUM

(the British prime minister) the Australian leader does not want to see the Commonwealth Secretariat fall into the hands of another leftist. Hence his opposition, even to respectable civil servants and diplomats like Canada's Arnold Smith and New Zealand's Alistair McIntosh in favor of a safe and respectable Ceylon civil servant. He will not even consider his fellow countryman, George Ivan Smith, a devoted servant of the United Nations, or another Australian, Sir Robert Jackson, who happens to have Nkrumah's support.

Sir Robert arrived in London apparently determined to play the role of enfant terrible—a role contrasting oddly with his position as the dozen of Commonwealth prime ministers. In fact, he is ready to fight, and fight hard, on at least two other issues.

Last year Sir Robert reluctantly went along with his colleagues in criticizing the policies of Mr. Ian Smith's government in Rhodesia. This time he proposes that the Rhodesian issue should not be discussed unless the Rhodesian leader is present. Since Mr. Smith could be seated only by unanimous agreement, this suggestion is apparently a manoeuvre for avoiding discussion on Rhodesia altogether. But although Sir Robert knows there is not the faintest chance of preventing a debate on Rhodesia, he seems determined to have his fight just the same.

To Forestall Criticism

He is likely to produce most controversy over his refusal to countenance any disapproval of the U.S. policy in Viet Nam. On this issue Sir Robert is more Johnsonian than President Johnson. It is not only that he wishes to play the faithful Boswell, but he apparently hopes to forestall any Commonwealth initiative that implicitly criticizes America. On this point he will have the full support of Malaysia's leader, Tengku Abdul Rahman and the milder approval of New Zealand's Keith Holyoake, and Britain's premier, Harold Wilson.

Apart from the three issues of Rhodesia, Viet Nam and the Secretary-General, the other major question is likely to be Commonwealth trade.

This is Mr. Wilson's special interest, and he promises to produce some lively ideas. So far he has kept these carefully under his hat. He will, however, disarm a lot of potential criticism by disclosing amendments to the finance bill which will meet the needs of Commonwealth countries—especially the less developed ones—for capital investment.

Immigration is a touchy question. But it would be surprising if Mr. Wilson ran into any serious difficulties in producing a calm atmosphere in which this problem could be discussed among the members particularly concerned in the possible effects of Britain's future policy.

A Pride or a Shame

The would-be desecrators of this potentially beautiful and valuable asset to our city have deemed what they term as "emotionalism" in those who would defend it against their fouling of the Gorge's fair waters. So be it then, I plead proudly guilty to being among the "emotionalists", if it be emotional to feel an overpowering outrage at the insensate spoliation of this gem.

What a mecca this Gorge of ours could be. With its warm waters welcoming our young swimmers and dotted with the colorful sails of small boats, families enjoying the park and the beaches, with the band's music as a satisfying background, away from the cold winds of Beacon Hill. A restaurant (with some outside tables practical here) in conjunction with a grandstand and proper swimming and diving facilities. These developments should make an excellent 1967 Centennial Project.

Other cities with no convenient "dumping ground" solve their sewage problems. So can Greater Victoria, without making a "messy cess-pool" of this invaluable local asset and outstanding tourist attraction.—Charles L. Frankham, 3991 Lockhaven Drive.

Pensions and Taxes

Having read the letter in last Thursday's edition of your paper "Bureaucracy at Work," submitted by "Dejected" and relative to double taxation matters between Canada and Britain, I feel that the writer should be informed of the true position and the facts as they now stand.

In the first instance Canada did not cancel the double taxation agreement with Britain. The period of agreement between the two countries expired and Canada drew up a new agreement which Britain has so far refused to sign or renew.

I also received notice from Britain that my pension would be taxed at the source as and from April, 1965, and it is already being deducted at the standard rate. I have made inquiries at the local taxation office and can receive no information on the matter. I have written my local MP who informed me the matter is being considered and that appears to be as far as it will go.

When I came to Canada 15 years ago I was told my pension would be taxed in Canada. I lost at least a third of it through devaluation of the pound and now I am threatened with double taxation by Canada and Britain. I suppose Mr. Gordon will allow me to retain what remains.

I am afraid "Dejected" will have to suffer like many others from Britain merely because two governments cannot agree over a small matter which affects small people with small pensions, and don't forget "bureaucracy" can work in Canada as well as Britain.—Pensioner.

Can't Smell the Roses

A City of Gardens and you can't smell the roses and mignonette for the reek of the neighbors' rags and bones and fish offal burning!

Having read in the Times column "Roundabout" of the gallant Vigilantes of Oak Bay, formed to do battle with offensive incinerators, I am anxious to know if they have had any success?

Unfortunately the enthusiastic incinerator burner has something to be said on his side. Out here in Saanich where there are only fortnightly garbage collections, no doubt a bulging and smelly garbage can is pretty nasty.

If enough complaints were made could the various councils be persuaded to pass a bylaw that owners of outdoor incinerators be allowed to burn them only in the mornings so we could enjoy our fragrant gardens and the warm summer evenings?—Kipperd.

Public and Strikes

I think the remarks made by Mr. Pearlman at a meeting of the Victoria Gyro Club about the spineless attitude of the general public in connection with the continual strikes which unnecessarily tie up general business, are the most sensible I have seen. It is about time that the public took a hand in these matters for their protection.—One of the Public.

Ticket-fixing

Quebec Le Soleil

The worst of the report on ticket-fixing at the Quebec City municipal court is that it is, without saying so, a condemnation of the Quebec community. How else can it be explained that there was no movement of indignation during the years from 1958 and before, no cry for reform during council elections?

The public cannot plead ignorance of what was going on at city court any more than can the councillors. Hundreds of them, if not thousands, profited from the juggling of tickets and summonses. Does their silence represent our level of civic spirit? Let us hope not, for it is more amoral than civic.

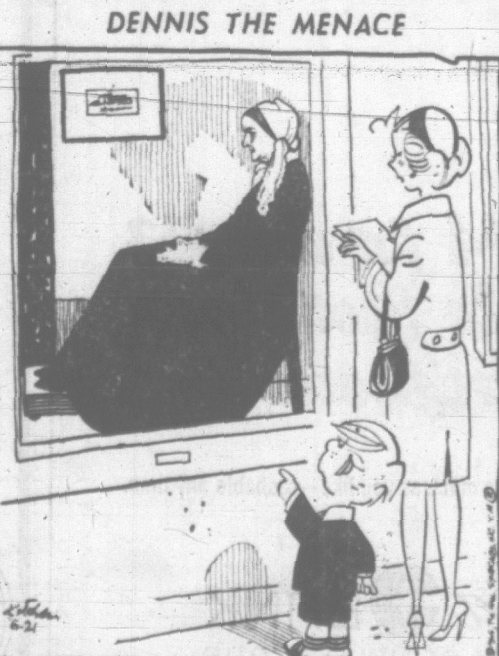

troubling aspect of the whole thing. Will the Sylvester report shake us out of it in time for the next fall's elections?

ALONE ON PURPOSE

Meanings of solitude and loneliness need to be separated from one another. By solitude I mean a state found in maturity at any age. It is choosing to be alone, without loneliness. It is part of meditation in its religious aspect, and, in my view, it is an essential sign of western civilization. A person who chooses to be in solitude for some time of the day is, I say, showing maturity. On the other hand, loneliness is a state of being isolated, unfrequented, companionless, as dictionaries say. Loneliness is, in particular, an unchosen situation, in direct contrast with solitude, as I have defined it.

Looking Back

From The Times of June 21, 1880:
Port Arthur: A bonanza has been struck at the celebrated Badger mine near Port Arthur. This property has provided $250,000 in silver in the last year. Now officials are certain there are more veins and one of them has been traced nearly 2,000 feet. A test shows it averages 1,757 ounces of silver a ton. The Badger Company has bought neighboring property of the Porcupine mine for $60,000 cash.

INSIDE POLITICS

With Douglas Fisher, M.P.

Vindication for the Government

Several pending developments loom ahead of the rejoining party. Shortly, the Dorion Inquiry report will be presented. Some time in the summer recess, both a cabinet shuffle and an answer about the future of Maurice Sauve seem likely. Of course, cabinet changes and Sauve's place in the pecking order are closely linked.

It is often both pretentious and silly to make predictions. I was sure we would have an election in June or July, forecast it, and was all wrong. But I think there are better hopes for accuracy in predicting the gist of the Dorion Report.

The judge's report seems likely to make the following points: Raymond Denis will bear the main load of the individuals who were involved. Severe strictures will be set out on the role of Guy Rouleau, M.P., but these will not have any definite conclusion, other than that he acted in a way which members of Parliament should not.

Justice Minister Favreau and his colleague, Rene Tremblay will be described as ministers. References to the relationship between the ministers and Denis will stress the humanity and trust of the ministers. The report will largely ignore the question of the connection which lay between the justice minister and the prime minister.

Here the emphasis will be on the immense business each is involved in and the common-sense reasons why it was not unusual that the prime minister was not fully and immediately informed about the involvement of Denis and Rouleau.

The RCMP will get a rather severe chastising for its handling of the detective work on the case. It seems impossible that it can escape without criticism of the role and use of French-speaking officers within the force.

Beyond this, the Dorion Report will conclude that there wasn't any calculated concealment or evasion of responsibility on the part of the ministers. In other words, the report will be a vindication, in the main, of the government and thus an implicit rebuke to the suspicions of the opposition.

The dilemma for the opposition and particularly for John Diefenbaker will centre on what kind of interpretation to make of the report in Parliament. There is a strong, lingering sentiment among many senior Liberals for a later summer election. Too much hostility and criticism about a report which they can interpret as a vindication seems their last chance for going to the people, before the process of redistribution closes in to prevent such a call before late 1966.

If the report is of the character I suggest and the mood of reaction settled down quickly, the prime minister will go ahead with a new cabinet plan and we shall discover whether Sauve has won or lost his daring campaign to oust the old guard in Quebec.

One must admire the persistence of Maurice Sauve. He has threatened resignation. He has stumped both Quebec and the rest of the country with unflattering comments about his party's methods and organization in Quebec. He has made few, if any, concessions to any potential disciples among the French-speaking members of the Liberal caucus.

He has largely ignored a role in the commons as a minister, in order to keep the ferment brewing in Quebec. He has used his friends and admirers in the press, especially those on English newspapers, with a directness that is shockingly indiplomatic but most effective.

My hunch is that he has won his case. That the reforms of the party are to take place. Whether he actually directs them or not, he shall have the credit. And from it all must come a more senior portfolio with more prestige.

The other elements in the cabinet shuffle are less predictable but the pattern is likely to be a substitution of youth for age and seniority. Associated with the shuffle will be a cluster of appointments to the Senate, including a number of veteran Liberal M.P.s.

The key persons to watch for are Paul Hellyer and Allan MacEachen. Will Hellyer be given a portfolio in the field of economics, where he wants to be? Perhaps in the department of industry?

Mr. MacEachen is making more of the department of labor all the time. It also seems that he is more the favorite, the all round politician, to move up to the ranking of successor to the prime minister.

In the short run, Mitchell Sharp; in the longer run, Paul Hellyer are the other alternatives.

Of course, all these predictions may be wrong and Judge Dorion may trigger a much different kind of upheaval. I doubt it.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

The famed miners' houses at Lantzville, a few miles north of Nanaimo, will soon be a thing of the past.

They've watched coal being taken from the earth almost at their doorsteps. They've seen the miners leave and other interests take over the village. At least three generations have lived within their walls.

Now they are to be removed to make way for a modern residential development.

When I was Up-Island recently, I took the old highway (marked "Scenic Route to Lantzville") to have a last look at these houses.

Most of them were empty. Windows looked starkly naked and the doors, shut tight, presented a cold, bleak look.

In one or two places, families still live on. Children's toys littered the gardens and freshly washed clothes hung on the lines.

At the far end of the first row, an elderly man leaned on the gate. Behind him, a Red Ensign fluttered from an ancient flagpole.

You can have one of these places for a very modest sum (around $750 I was told) if you can haul it away.

Trouble is, they are two storeys high and it is almost impossible to manoeuvre them under the power lines and up to the highway.

So far, only one has been moved successfully. Which means that before long the syndicate planning the new development will put a bulldozer in and the whole lot will be wiped out in a matter of minutes.

When this happens, most of the early history of Lantzville will go with the smashed walls and crushed roofs.

That history goes back to the early days of the present century when J. J. Grant acquired 4,700 acres of coal land, northeast of the famous Wellington seam, originally opened by Dunsmuir interests.

Grant opened his own coal mine at the Nanos Bay end of the property. The tiny community that grew up around it (including the first miners' houses) was called "Grant's Mine."

Negro 'Isolation' Increasing

NEW YORK—In contrast to the widespread misgivings over President Johnson's foreign policy pronouncements, there is nothing but praise for the civil rights speech which he delivered at Howard University, Washington, probably the country's leading predominantly Negro teaching institution.

The president used the invitation to give the annual commencement address to not only a forthright and honest—and therefore depressing—analysis of the Negro condition, but also to reaffirm in stronger terms than ever his dedication to the cause of equality and advancement for all races of Americans.

What was more, he recognized the mountainous size of the problem. He began by stating the obvious—that with the passage of voting rights bill, almost everything that is possible through legislation had now been done to assure the Negro of his civil rights.

Now that the framework had been built for assimilating the Negro into the mainstream of American society, the nation was faced with one of its most difficult tasks, namely, to accomplish the assimilation. The president admitted that there was no easy way, that the causes of Negro inequality and poverty were not even yet fully understood, and that remedies would have to be sought on many fronts.

HELLA PICK

He announced that he was organizing a White House conference in the autumn, of scholars and experts of both races, and of outstanding Negro leaders as well as government officials, to examine how the Negro's civil rights could be fulfilled.

The Bad Side

The president showed that for a minority of Negroes there had already been significant advances both in education and employment. But he concentrated more on the depressing side of the picture. For the great majority of Negroes there was a much grimmer story: they were still a nation within a nation for whom the walls are rising and the gulf widening.

He had many statistics to demonstrate the point: the Negro unemployment rate today is twice as high as that of white Americans—35 years ago the rate was the same. The infant mortality of non-whites in 1940 was 70 per cent greater than that of whites; today it is 90 per cent greater.

"The isolation of the Negro from the white community is increasing rather than decreasing. Negroes are trapped in gateless poverty. But Negro poverty is not white poverty. It is the devastating heritage of long years of slavery and essentially of oppression, and hatred and injustice."

Far more significant is the growing strength in the South of the "Deacons for defence and justice," a group of Negroes dedicated to defend members of their race from white terrorism. The group originated in Louisiana and has now spread to Alabama and Mississippi. They have guns, and are willing to use them in defence of their race.

Europe Is Getting Colder Study of Glaciers Shows

By ROLAND HUNTFORD

OSLO—Glaciers have been called the "thermometers of the world. They retreat or advance with changes in the climate, and are sensitive to a change of mean temperature by even a fraction of a degree.

In the last 75 years, Alpine and Scandinavian glaciers have contracted dramatically. This has coincided with milder winters, and scientists concluded that the world, or at least the European continent, was warming up. The process was assumed to be continuous, but conclusions were hampered by a lack of records before the nineteenth century.

Norwegian scientists are now working on a new method of charting a glacier's history by analysis of deep ice and dry bed, and seem to have discovered periodic changes which indicate that climate goes in cycles.

Bigger Now

Investigation of a number of Norwegian glaciers by this method has shown that they have actually increased since the eighteenth century, and today are bigger than they were 200 years ago.

The work has also cast doubt on present ideas on the age of glaciers. They have been generally supposed to be remnants of the last Ice Age, which would eventually disappear. That would make them 20,000 years old at least. But the Norwegian work appears to have shown that Scandinavian glaciers may not be more than 1,000 or 2,000 years old which, in its turn, would mean that glaciers in general do not necessarily require a long, arctic age, but can be formed quite easily from accumulated snow in a normal climate.

The lesson seems to be that a country's climate is far more changeable than people generally accept. Norwegian folk-lore is full of it, the most celebrated case being that of the "fimbul-winter," which was a long, cold period in prehistoric times. Some suppose it to have been the last Ice Age.

Swedish glaciologists report that the northern Swedish glaciers have stopped retreating, at least temporarily. The snow from the past two winters has balanced loss by melting during the summer. This is the first time that has happened since systematic research began a few decades ago. It is too early to draw conclusions, but glaciologists hope that in a few years they will be able to chart the long-term changes in the earth's climate.

If Norwegian research is correct, the European continent, at least, should be entering a cold period. Perhaps we are about to return to the conditions described by Roman historians when the Rhine and the Danube froze each winter, and the plains were regularly inundated with snow.

TV Teaching In Britain

British Information Service

In Britain, as elsewhere throughout the world, qualified teachers are at a premium and, in order to overcome the shortage, giant strides are being made in the techniques of teaching by television.

Many British schools, colleges and universities are now using closed-circuit television. In nearly all of them the emphasis is on science teaching, although in future other subjects and outside broadcasts may be attempted.

A simple television camera, costing around $240 in Britain, may be wired directly to a standard household television set to give the most rudimentary direct link, which permits a simple demonstration to be wired from one classroom to another.

At the other end of the scale is the system now being assembled for Glasgow, Scotland, which will link nearly 300 schools and colleges at an annual cost of $150,000 inclusive of production costs. This system will transmit lessons produced by teachers in their own classrooms and laboratories. It will be the largest system of its kind in the world and will use directional microwave transmission to "satellite" clusters of schools and colleges linked by cable.

Smaller systems in other parts of the country, either linking classrooms or two schools by cable or microwave link. These have the advantage of flexibility, close and immediate personal control by the teachers, and incorporate sound facilities for the pupils to ask questions.

Soothsayers and Shamans Play a Strong Role in Far East

By STANLEY KARNOW

HONG KONG—Nothing is more natural in Asia than the supernatural. In assorted ways, nearly everyone in the Orient is concerned with astrology and cosmology, numerology, palmistry, albino elephants, three-legged toads and the meaning of wars.

The area abounds in sorcerers, shamans, soothsayers and other thaumaturgists, who interpret the shape of the moon, cast spells, brew magic potions and practise other occult crafts. Belief is widespread in a pervasive and perplexing pantheon of good and evil spirits which selves, and the project was shelved.

Even Hong Kong's British colonial authorities are on the mystical alert. In constructing roads and buildings, for example, they pay special attention to Feng Shui, the relation to the winds and water that harbor the spirits. Not long ago, when civil servants complained of a phantom in their office, the government promptly dispatched a procession of Buddhist monks to exorcise the place.

Of course, most oriental leaders sincerely believe in the occult. The amiable former premier of Laos, Prince Boun Oum na Champassak, is proud of his "luk krok," an amulet supposedly fashioned from a human foetus, which can make him disappear into thin air. President Sukarno attributes his eclectic personality to his birth under the sign of Gemini. "I can mix with Communists, Socialists, Muslims, Christians, revolutionary nationalists and even compromising nationalists," he has explained. "I have made myself the meeting place of all trends and theories, and I have blended, blended, blended them until they became the present Sukarno."

... magical powers?

Crusader

India's late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, a Cambridge-educated agnostic, tirelessly crusaded against "irrationalism and blind idolatry." His efforts were largely fruitless. Most Indian politicians staunchly follow the counsel of their astrologers. The present Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri refused to move to a more dignified residence because his old Delhi address is a lucky number.

By way of reaction, perhaps no government in Asia treats the supernatural more seriously than China's Communist regime. Peking constantly and energetically inveighs against superstition. Belief in the occult, Red Chinese publicists stress, constitutes "a serious threat to socialist revolution and its construction."

The intensity of anti-occult campaigns in China obliquely reveals the extent of superstitious belief in the country. State-controlled Chinese newspapers are regularly filled with horrendous tales disclosing that despite 15 years of Communist indoctrination, even educated citizens are still partial to supernatural practices.

Not long ago, for instance, the director of a medical clinic in Kwangtung province was found to be worshipping the clay image of the god of wealth. The leader of a Communist women's league in South China was recently unmasked consulting a "soothsayer" in order to fix an auspicious date for her son's wedding. Such activities, Communist ideologues point out, betray a belief in "fatalism," thereby leading to the notion that human conditions are ordained and cannot be altered by revolution.

In an attempt to counteract superstition, the Peking regime has been sending out "truth squads" to promote "revolutionary culture and scientific thought." These teams reportedly operate more energetically at temple fairs, driving away fortune-tellers and urging people not to pray to their gods.

Hard on Critics

This effort to wipe out superstition has particularly plagued Chinese literary critics. For the Chinese classics are filled with reference to ghosts, spirits and other supernatural beings, and it is no easy matter to deal with this literary heritage while remaining ideologically sound.

A recent victim of doctrinal deviationism in occult realms is the critic Fan Hsing. Back in 1961, he praised a modern adaptation of an ancient drama about a girl who returned after death to haunt her oppressors. He justified his stand by claiming that people centuries ago believed in ghosts, and thus their inclusion in a contemporary version of the play was acceptable.

Somehow this view escaped notice for several years. A few months ago, however, Fan Hsing was rebuked for his erroneous remarks. "Ghosts of all kinds and all epochs should be exorcised, declared Chinese Communist ideologues, and every revolutionary who serves the people wholeheartedly should resolutely arm himself with Marxism-Leninism and the thought of Mao Tse-tung."

Mistaken View

Under pressure, Fan Hsing recanted. To have suggested, as he did, that "good ghosts can inspire people's fighting spirit" was, he confessed, an extremely preposterous mistaken viewpoint. He had fallen prey to "mechanical and negative metaphysical thinking because, Fan Hsing admitted, "I was hampered by my bourgeois world outlook and... lost my vigilance in the class struggle."

Fan Hsing seems to have disappeared from sight within recent months. And if his ghost is haunting other Chinese writers, they certainly aren't admitting it.

Trustee Inspection Shows Planning Lack

Greater Victoria School Board trustees took a busman's tour of the city Saturday on an inspection of school buildings and sites.

Primary purpose of the tour was to inspect new construction which was ordered under the last referendum and also to get some idea of future requirements.

The schools which came under close scrutiny were Craigflower, Esquimalt Junior, Lake Hill, Cloverdale, Gordon Head Junior, Braefoot, Doncaster and Shelbourne.

Funeral Held For Ex-Esquimalt Commissioner

Funeral was held Saturday for Ewart (Jack) Durling, a former Esquimalt police commissioner who had a long military background.

Mr. Durling, of 631 Grenville, died last Wednesday at the age of 80, following a long illness.

He came to Canada in 1910 from Kent where he had been apprenticed to an engineering firm. He joined the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps in Halifax and was soon back in England training as an armament artificer.

With the outbreak of war in 1914, Mr. Durling was sent to Jamaica. In 1918 he was sent to Vladivostok with the Siberian Expeditionary Force, returning to Canada the following year.

He was then placed in charge of ordnance workshops in Esquimalt until his discharge in 1932 when he was a sergeant-major. During his army career he distinguished himself as a marksman in competition.

Mr. Durling was an avid gardener. He served as Esquimalt police commissioner between 1944 and 1951.

Surviving are his wife Ellen and one daughter, Mrs. Muriel Evans, 630 Grenville, two sons and several grandchildren.

The funeral was held at McCall Brothers chapel.

Settlement Near In Bus Walkout

MONTREAL (CP)—A quick settlement to Montreal's mass transportation strike was indicated following agreement late Sunday night between union negotiators and the Montreal Transportation Commission on the one remaining issue at stake.

Some 1,000 MTC maintenance men were scheduled to meet today to vote on the wage agreement. The 2,800 bus drivers and 100 clerical workers voted Saturday to accept terms of a new offer but the garage workers balked and the strike continued, entering its 14th day.

Details of the Sunday night agreement were not immediately disclosed. The bus drivers accepted a 65-cent hourly increase over a three-year contract with one year retroactive and the maintenance men rejected a 45-cent boost over the same period. Agreement by each group of workers was required to end the strike.

Both groups were paid a pre-strike average of $2.12 but the city of Montreal, which controls the MTC, pays its own maintenance men less for comparable jobs than the pre-strike rate at the MTC.

Yvan Blain, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions affiliate representing the MTC, said the maintenance men wanted the same wage increase as that offered the drivers.

Following a strike settlement, the MTC estimated it would take at least eight hours to get the 2,000 buses on the road.

According to this estimate, an estimated 550,000 commuters who usually take buses to work in the Montreal area faced another full day of alternate transportation. The strike has tied up traffic, already heavy on the main arteries, and cut retail sales in downtown Montreal.

The effects of the MTC strike were increased June 12 when 900 bus drivers of the Provincial Transport Co., also CNTU members, walked out to support demands for higher pay and shorter working hours.

3 Die in Car Crash

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Three youths died Saturday when their late model convertible left the highway near Coldstream, just outside the city. Dead are Roderick William Neill, 21; Gerald Robert Kakoski, 19, and George Alfred Briggs, 21, all of Vernon.

PIDDLING PROBLEM PUZZLING

PUDDLETOWN, Eng. (CP)—Puddletown, Turnerspuddle, Tolpuddle, Affpuddle, Briantspuddle, Piddletrenthide and Piddletrenthide—all tiny Dorset villages—have a delicate semantic problem. They don't know whether they are "puddles" or "piddles." All stand on the river Piddle, an Anglo-Saxon word for marsh, and the older inhabitants of the "puddles" insist on using "piddle." However, historical research has shown that the names now on the map are all correct.

B.C. Tel closed circuit television helps doctors detect cancer in time

Time is one of the elements which works on the side of medical research in the detection and cure of cancer, the dread killer. Another element is identifying cancerous tissues correctly so that prompt action may be taken to combat the disease.

B.C. TEL's Closed Circuit Television equipment is playing an important part in the fight against cancer. Equipment installed in one of the Vancouver laboratories of the B.C.

Cancer Institute transmits a picture from the powerful microscope of Chief Technician Denys R. Lock to a 23" television screen. Here the reproduction of the slide can be easily viewed by any number of consulting doctors at one time.

During the final diagnosis by Dr. H. K. Fidler, director of pathology, or other staff doctors, the picture is shown simultaneously on a 23-inch TV set in the screening room to the thirteen technicians who make the initial examination of slides. They then conduct an educational discussion with the staff; over a parallel intercom system, pointing out the significant aspects of the specimen.

The marvels of closed circuit television are multiplying the skills of medical science, another example of how B.C. TEL is serving humanity, industry and the home in so many ways.

China Must Have UN Seat

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart said Sunday Britain will continue to stress that China should be represented in the United Nations.

Stewart said in a recorded television interview Britain and the U.S. do not agree over this representation.

On Viet Nam, Stewart said: "That is why, of course, we take the view and shall continue to stress that the government of Peking should be the one represented in the United Nations, or rather the government of Peking is not the one represented."

HUMPHREY ... reports Tuesday

Paris Talks 'Fruitful' Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey is back from Paris with a report of a "fruitful and most constructive" visit with President de Gaulle.

"It couldn't have been better," Humphrey said Sunday night as he arrived at Andrews Air Base just outside Washington after a three-day visit to Paris with Gemini astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White.

Humphrey's visit with De Gaulle Sunday took place against a backdrop of strained French-American relations, especially over Viet Nam.

The vice-president refused to comment specially on the discussions, saying only that he and de Gaulle covered "a wide range of subjects" during their 80-minute meeting.

Humphrey, McDivitt and White were sent by Johnson to Paris last Friday.

Greek-Cypriot Exercise Features Red-Made Armor

FAMAGUSTA, Cyprus (AP) — Soviet-made armor and artillery rumbled over the country-side of east Cyprus Sunday in the largest military exercise staged to date by the Greek-Cypriot national guard.

The exercise was reviewed by Gen. George Grivas, 69, commander of the Cyprus armed forces, who last week vehemently denied reports he had resigned due to differences with President Makarios.

The armored manoeuvres were geared to repulsing a simulated Turkish invasion.

Thousands of youthful Greek-Cypriot national guard, conscripts and reservists, recalled to arms by radio Saturday, manned coastal defences in the whole of eastern Cyprus, centring on the island's major port of Famagusta.

Biggest surprise of the exercise, which Grivas later described as "an unqualified success," was the first public appearance of the island's recently-acquired heavy military hardware, consisting mainly of a number of old Soviet armored personnel carriers and heavy Soviet anti-tank artillery pieces. These are believed to have been obtained under the terms last September of a secret Cyprus-Soviet military aid pact.

The taken invasion force was supported by Soviet-made torpedo boats, while the Cyprus air force, a motley collection of small spotter planes and twin-engine piston aircraft, circled overhead, doubling alternately as attacking and defending forces.

Japanese Confidence 'Shattered'

TOKYO (AP)—The crisis on the Japanese stock market, it will take months, even years, to restore public confidence in the near-bankruptcy of one of Japan's largest securities firms, has prompted the government to take drastic measures, announced last month in a step of authorizing an unlimited amount of security-free loans to save Yamaichi from collapse.

Commercial banks agreed to a moratorium on Yamaichi's interest payments.

The diet (parliament), meanwhile, hastily revised the securities trading law giving the finance ministry licensing authority over securities firms in 1968.

Many financial experts feel, however, the revised law still has too many loopholes to be effective, and what is most needed is a fundamental overhaul of Japanese securities operations.

Yamaichi's crisis resulted basically from its over-aggressiveness following the introduction in 1960 of a government program to double the national income in 10 years.

Industry took this as the go-ahead for an unparalleled spending spree in plant and equipment investment. Yamaichi expanded to the point where it was acting as underwriters for the flotation of new stock issues for as many as some 350 of the 1,261 firms listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange. The remaining firms are divided among the other major securities houses.

A fundamental reason for the crisis is the Japanese practice of over-borrowing, experts say. On the average the ratio of owned to borrowed capital among Japanese firms is about 30 per cent to 70 per cent.

Grain, Asthma Linked Scientists Tell Meet

TORONTO (CP)—An association between local epidemics of asthma and the handling of grain was reported today by a team of scientists from Tulane University, New Orleans.

Drs. Hans Weill, Morton M. Ziskind, Richard C. Dickerson and Vincent J. Derbes told the annual meeting of the Air Pollution Control Association that low-velocity winds from the southwest were most commonly found during asthma outbreaks in New Orleans.

These winds passed over the port's public grain elevator which in 1964 exported 264,000 bushels of wheat, corn and soybeans.

They said: "It seems fairly well established that an allergenic source is situated to the southwest of the major patient population area. The public grain elevator occupies such a location and the sensitivity of most of the outbreak patients to its emissions has been demonstrated."

The team said the asthma outbreaks and their relationship to the handling of grain were not peculiar to New Orleans. In Minneapolis, a major grain-handling city, they noted a higher-than-normal incidence of asthma among students at the University of Minnesota.

In a 1964 study of 502 grain elevator agents in Saskatchewan, they reported, 47 per cent were found to have respiratory symptoms and 19 per cent "had a history of wheezing." Thus "many employees at the grain

Retail Sales Still Climb

OTTAWA (CP)—Retail sales jumped 10.7 per cent to $1,805,310,000 in April this year from $1,631,648,000 in April last year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

This brought sales for the first four months of this year to $6,324,446,000, up 4.5 per cent from the first four months of 1964.

The bureau said its figures are estimates subject to revision on an annual basis. They are not adjusted for price changes, seasonal variations, or the number of shopping days in the month.

Retail sales this year rose two-fifths of 1 per cent in January and then fell half of 1 per cent in February. They ran 6.4 per cent higher in March than a year earlier.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Metropolitan Life Now offers you 3 New Policies for more flexible and versatile insurance

1. A new "Whole-Life" Policy with special options for retirement.

This new Policy answers 2 basic insurance needs. It gives your family protection through the critical, growing years. And it guarantees you an extra source of income for your retirement years.

Here's how it works. At age 50, or on the tenth policy anniversary if later, you can convert a "Whole-Life Policy" to an endowment plan that matures in 15 years, or to a life plan that is paid up in 15 years.

For example, if you take out your Whole-Life Policy at age 40 or after, you can take advantage of this special conversion privilege just 10 years later. And the premium payable after you convert is figured out before hand—at the time the policy is written. In this way, you don't have to pay a lump-sum, when you change to an endowment or life plan.

2. A new "Econo-Matic" Policy for practical, low-cost insurance.

This "Econo-Matic" Policy gives you maximum protection for a minimum premium.

It's designed to give low cost insurance to those who need it most—those whose first insurance need is enough protection for a young, growing family.

An "Econo-Matic" Policy is written for an initial minimum of $10,000. For this amount, your premium is much less than the premium for a standard life policy with a guaranteed face value of $10,000.

The ingenious feature of the policy is this: while the guaranteed amount of insurance is lower after two years, application of dividends—if present levels are continued—will maintain the original amount of coverage at the same low premium.

3. A new 10-Year Term Policy for special business requirement.

This convertible policy has outstanding advantages in business and estate planning—to cover, for example, large loans and certain partnership needs.

To achieve the striking cost savings this policy offers, it is written only for $25,000 or more; strictly for 10 years, and is non-renewable.

But the cost advantages are remarkable. During the first two years, premiums are especially low. And, assuming dividends at current rates are applied to premiums, payments can be kept low for the full ten years!

The policy can be converted, without evidence of insurability, to a permanent type of insurance, up to the full face amount, at any time that your life insurance requirements change.

For more flexible and versatile insurance, have a chat with your nearest Metropolitan Agent! Remember, there's no obligation—except to those you love.

Millions choose Metropolitan Life

Planning Film Meeting Feature

Three Cures for a Sick City, a film dealing with the importance of planning, will be shown at Wednesday night's meeting of the capital region branch of the Community Planning Associa-subject.

New Facilities At Villa Ready Soon

Extended facilities at Kiwanis Villa, 3035 Cook Street, will come into service shortly.

The $200,000 addition to the Kiwanis home for elderly people will include a new permanent dining room and a new kitchen capable of serving 100 people plus 27 additional bed-sitting rooms.

Kiwanis Villa with present facilities for 52 people is situated within Kiwanis Village which lodges 130 people in individual housing units.

Victorians contribute to the project through the Kiwanis an-

New Plays Bewilder U.K. Stage Veteran

LONDON (AP) — Dame Flora
Robson, 63, one of the great names of the British stage, says she is tired of the theatre because she just does not understand today's plays.

The actress said in an interview that today's plays "do not make much sense, and you can't go back to the old days."

Dame Flora's last major appearance on the London stage was five years ago in The As-pern Papers, Sir Michael Redgrave's adaptation of Henry

James's book. It was a success.

Two years ago she was in Ibsen's John Gabriel Borkman which failed before it got started.

She has appeared in films, stage plays and on television during her noted career, which began more than 40 years ago.

She sees most of the plays in Brighton, where she resides, before they come to London.

"Three out of every four that

Even Good Ones Miss Short Ones

Player, Nagle
Work Overtime
For Open Crown

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Young Gary Player and aging Kel Nagle had to play off today for the United States Open golf championship because neither could sink an 18-inch putt.

The 29-year-old Player missed his on the 16th hole on the final round Sunday just when it looked like he had a lock on becoming the first foreign golfer to win the Open since Ted Ray of England won it back in 1920.

The 44-year-old Nagle missed his on the hole before that. So the determined South African and the weary Nagle wound up tied with a total of 282 strokes and created today's 18-hole playoff.

Evenly Matched

The statistics showed how even these two foreign stars were in the four rounds over the 7,191-yard Bellevere course that stubbornly refused to yield its 35-35-70 par to the world's best shotmakers.

Both Player and Nagle had 128 putts in the four rounds; both hit 54 of the 72 greens; and both thought they blew the title with double bogeys on the back nine.

Nagle, playing a hole ahead of Player, was one stroke behind the little, determined South African going to the par four, 456-yard 15th hole.

He blasted out onto the green, 30 feet from the cup. His first putt was 18 inches short. He missed it and wound up with a double bogey.

'See What You Did'

Player got word of it and someone in the gallery shouted: "You've got it sewed up." "Don't say that with three tough holes to go," Player replied. And he went right out and proved how tough they could be.

He put his tee shot on the par three, 216-yard 16th into a trap and blasted out to within 15 feet of the cup. His first putt went 18 inches beyond the hole, and he missed coming back.

That still left him with a one-stroke lead but that vanished when Nagle birdied the 606-yard, par five 17th. Nagle put his seven iron third shot four feet from the flag and sank the putt, just as Player was missing that 18-inch.

While Player was paring that hole, his Australian rival was paring the 18th. Player had a 10-foot putt for a birdie on the 17th and missed it.

On the final hole, Nagle had a 16-foot putt for victory, but missed it. Player had a 30-footer and was four inches short. So today they had to go out to decide who will receive the $25,000 first-place money. The runner-up gets $12,500.

Frank Beard, who wound up with third-place money of $9,000, was two shots back of Player, just as Nagle was, starting the final round-but dropped out of contention when he double-bogeyed the second hole. He shot a fourth-round 71 for a total of 284.

Chance for Boros

Former U.S. open champion Julius Boros, playing ahead of Player, made a run at the lead when he birdied three of the first 11 holes. But then he carded three straight bogeys on the 14th, 15th and 16th holes. His final round 70 put him in a tie with Al Geiberger for fourth place, worth $8,500 each at 287.

George Knudson of Toronto, the only Canadian in the tournament after Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., missed the cut-off with Arnold Palmer Friday, wound up in a four-way tie at 294, good for $1,087.20. He shot a final-round 72.

John Nicholson captured the laurels in the second game, winning his own ball game 2-1 with a long single off the left field wall in the seventh. Nicholson allowed only one hit in the contest to outshine Rawlings' hard working Des Moseley.

Moseley won his fourth game of the year Saturday afternoon when Rawlings defeated Transports 9-4 at Royal Athletic Park. Jay Rawlings with a two-run single in the first and Gary Tuttle with three clutch base hits led the winners.

Chemainus won the night-cap 5-4 when a pair of walks led to Doug Latta's game winning single in the bottom of the eighth.

Ferraris Triumph In Le Mans Race

LE MANS, France (AP) — Veteran driver Masten Gregory got assists from a rookie and a faulty tire Sunday in winning the gruelling 24-hour Le Mans automobile race and continuing the domination of the event by Italian Ferrari cars.

Ferrari swept the first three places in the race and scored its sixth straight victory.

The heralded duel between the new Ford prototypes, still untested in racing until practice began here, and the factory-entered Ferraris did not come about.

There were 11 Ferraris and 11 Ford-powered cars among the 51 which started Saturday. Five Ferraris made it to the finish but only one Ford-powered car, a badly battered Cobra, was running after 24 hours.

Blowout Big Break for Gregory

Their car wasn't the fastest in the race, but they kept it going through the night as mechanical troubles plagued the swifter machines. They finally got the lead about 2 1/2 hours before the finish when another Ferrari, driven by Tat Gosselin of Belgium, blew a rear tire.

Gosselin had to drive six miles to the pits on the rim and by the time the wheel was replaced, Gregory was three laps in front. Gosselin and co-driver Pierre Dumay had to make other pit stops and finally finished six laps behind.

Gregory and Rindt wheeled it around the 8.36-mile road course 347 times for an official distance of 4,677.11 kilometres — about 2,898 miles.

The order of finish: 1. Ferrari, Masten Gregory, Kansas City, and Jochen Rindt, Germany, 5:58; 2. Ferrari, Pierre Dumay, France, and Tat Gosselin, Belgium, 3:02 laps; 3. Ferrari, Willy Mairesse, Belgium, and Jean Bourvis, France, 2:58 laps; 4. Porsche, Herbert Linge and Peter Knebel, Germany, 2:54 laps; 5. Porsche, Peter Koch and Antonio Fischhaber, Germany, 2:54 laps; 6. Ferrari, Armando Dini and Dieter Spoerry, Switzerland, 2:50 laps; 7. Ferrari, Pedro Rodriguez, Mexico, and Nino Vaccarella, Italy, 2:49 laps; 8. Cobra, Jack Seare, Britain, and Dick Thompson, Washington, D.C., 2:48 laps; 9. Iso Grito, Jean de Montmart and Roger Prévost, France, 2:48 laps; 10. Rover-BRM, Graham Hill and Jackie Stewart, Britain, 2:48 laps; 11. M.G.B., Paddy Hopkirk and A. P. Hedger, Britain, 2:41 laps; 12. Austin-Healey, Paul Hawkins, Australia, and John Rhodes, Britain, 2:36 laps; 13. Triumph, Jean-Jacques Thimer, Switzerland, and Simon Lamphier, Britain, 2:32 laps; 14. Porsche, Claude Dubois and Jean Francois Prie, France, 2:31 laps.

Skating School Enrollment Hits All-Time High

Esquimalt Sports Centre's annual summer figure skating school will get under way June 28 with a record enrollment. Sports Centre manager Joe Iannarelli said skaters from all parts of B.C. as well as several Northwest states have enrolled for the eight-week session. Instruction will be provided by five Victoria professionals—Jim and Micheline Macaulay, Sandra Couch, Carole Johnson and Jane Patterson.

Fine Weekend For Chemainus

Some people would like to forget weekends, but Chemainus will take the last one and savor it for a while.

They came along in the last inning three times for Senior Amateur Baseball League victories.

Chemainus defeated league-leading Greaves 5-4 on Saturday and swept 5-3 and 2-1 decisions from Rawlings Sunday.

In the opening game of Sunday's double-header at Chemainus, the home club exploded for four runs in the seventh inning, getting base hits by Bob Wilson, Ken Yaniv and Rocky Wise. Wayne O'Keefe, who relieved in the second inning, shut the door on Rawlings to pick up his second victory of the season.

NICHOLSON NIETY

IS IT A BIRD? A MONSTER? ...

Forest of periscopes dotted the landscape at Bellevere Country Club in St. Louis where world's top professional golfers met in 65th annual U.S. Open on weekend. More agile and industrious watchers climbed trees for better look while others resorted to field glasses for glimpse at field. South Africa's Gary Player and Australia's Kel Nagle were to meet in 18-hole playoff today.

Indians' Skein at Nine; Callison Lifts Phillies

Times News Services
Cleveland pitchers came up with more brilliant performances Sunday as the Indians extended their winning streak to nine with 5-0 and 3-1 victories over the Los Angeles Angels.

The sweep tied the league's longest winning streak this year and kept the third-place Indians 1 1/2 games behind league-leading Minnesota Twins, who took New York Yankees 6-4 and 7-4.

Sam McDowell fired a two-hitter in the opener for his eighth victory against three defeats, giving the Indians four shutouts in five games. Lee Stange gave up a run in the nightcap but held the Angels to five hits.

Thus, in the last six contests, Indian hurlers have allowed only three runs. And excluding Friday night's 3-2 triumph over the Angels, the opposition has touched them for only 14 hits since last Wednesday.

McDowell now leads the league in strikeouts with 127 and the team with a 2.53 earned run average.

Elsewhere in the league Sunday, Chicago White Sox edged Boston Red Sox 4-3 in 10 innings before rain washed out the second game, Detroit Tigers ran their winning string to eight by beating Kansas City Athletics 12-8 before dropping a 2-1 decision, Baltimore Orioles crushed Washington Senators 13-2, and Minnesota Twins took two from New York Yankees, 6-4 and 7-4.

McDowell held the Angels hitless until the sixth inning when pitcher Marcelino Lopez led off with a double. Jim Fregosi beat out an infield single later in the inning.

Minnesota snapped a 4-4 deadlock with New York in the first game with two runs in the ninth, Zoilo Versalles scoring the first on Elston Howard's passed ball and Sandy Valdespino the second on Hal Reniff's wild pitch.

CLINCHES SECOND GAME

Harmon Killebrew, who homered in the opener, clinched the second game for the Twins with a two-run homer, his 13th, in the ninth. The double-header was played before 71,245, largest crowd in the majors since 1961.

Johnny Callison, the Philadelphia Phillies' barometer, indicates there may be fair weather ahead for last season's "near-champions."

Callison, the acknowledged team leader of the Phillies, has been struggling most of the season to climb back into his accustomed .280 hitting atmosphere after a poor start. And as Callison has struggled, so have the Phillies.

IMPORTANT HITS

The dynamic little outfielder Sunday displayed the kind of hitting that enabled the Phillies to dominate first place in the National League through most of the 1964 season. He tripled home the tying and winning runs in Philadelphia's 3-2 first-game triumph over the Houston Astros and doubled in two tallies to ignite a six-run third inning in a 7-1 nightcap victory.

Los Angeles Dodgers edged New York Mets 2-1, then lost 3-2; St. Louis stopped Milwaukee 6-4, San Francisco belted Pittsburgh 4-3 in 15 innings and 7-3, and Chicago battered Cincinnati 8-5, then lost 9-8 in NL play.

Callison has raised his batting average from .185 to .287 in the last six weeks and the sixth-place Phillies are hoping he can pull them up with them.

Aldeguer Primed For New Business

There could be a new business opening in Victoria this week . . . "R. Aldeguer, Tennis Trophies."

For a starter, Ray Aldeguer could offer four cups. That's how many he won on the weekend in the Racquet Club and Oak Bay tennis tournaments.

Aldeguer won the Racquet Club men's singles for the fifth time Sunday, defeating 14-year-old Roger Skillings 6-3, 6-2.

Then Aldeguer slipped over to Oak Bay where he took Ivor Goodman into camp, 6-1, 6-1. Back to the Racquet Club went Aldeguer. He combined with Ted Smythe to win the men's doubles, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3 over the Skillings brothers, Roger and Pat.

Trophy No. 4 for Aldeguer came when he teamed with Diana Lawrence in mixed doubles to turn back Mrs. Nancy Hill and Bruce Robertson 6-3, 9-11, 6-3.

Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Jill Ley won the ladies' doubles, defeating Mrs. Vivien Wilkinson and Gillian Thomas, 6-4, 6-0.

SINGLES QUEEN

Miss Thomas was at her best in winning the ladies' singles. Combining a strong backhand with accurate lobs to the baseline, she subdued Margaret Maysmith 9-7, 5-7, 6-0.

At Oak Bay, Sally Wood successfully defended her ladies' singles crown against Theodore Booker, first ranked 16-year-old in B.C. Scores were 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Howard Tooby and Vince Clarkson took the men's doubles, 6-1, 6-1, from Martin Taylor and Jake Sotkowsky; Clarkson and Miss Booker took the mixed doubles from Mrs. Felicity Graham and Jim Hassard, 6-4, 9-7; and Peggy Wright and Sally Wood won the ladies' doubles from Mr. Graham and Jennifer Leney, 4-6, 8-6, 6-3.

Flight champions at Oak Bay: Mixed Doubles — Ivy Hill and Alan Wright.
Men's Doubles — Dan Duncan and Ernie Wilson.
Men's Singles — Martin Taylor.

Soccer Offsides To Be Retained

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — The offside rule in soccer appeared to be here to stay after an experimental match Saturday watched by officials of the International Soccer Federation.

They saw Hearts of Edinburgh defeat Kilmarnock 8-2 with the offside rule restricted.

In soccer, a player is ruled offside if the ball is passed forward to him when he has only one opponent between him and the goal.

In Saturday's game, the offside rule was scrapped altogether in the first half. After halftime a line was drawn at each end of the field 13 yards from the goal, and offside counted only inside that line.

Sir Stanley Rous, president of FIFA, said "it was an entertaining match, but did not throw up much guidance. Of the 10 goals scored, I thought only two were scored as a result of the new systems on trial."

Haynie Triumphs In Ladies' Meet

ROCKTON, Ill. (AP)—Sandra Haynie won a sudden death playoff from Kathy Whitworth and Marlene Hagge Sunday to win the $9,500 Cosmopolitan women's open golf tournament.

Miss Haynie sank a birdie putt to defeat Miss Whitworth and Miss Hagge.

The trio ended regular play with 210s for the 54-hole, three-day tournament.

Margie Masters, the Australian amateur champion who turned pro a few months ago, shot 74-77-80—231, out of the money. Miss Masters now lives in Ottawa.

FIGHT RESULTS

PANAMA—Ismael Laguna, 136, Panama, stopped Raul Soriano, 136 1/2, Mexico City, 8, non-title.
ELYTHEVILLE, Ark.—Ernie Burford, 165, Memphis, outpointed Bill Depriest, 155, Savilla, Miss., 10.
TOKYO—Takeshi Nakamura, 112, Japan, outpointed Ric Magramo, 111 1/2, Philippines, 12. (Nakamura retained Oriental flyweight title.)

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bob McLean of Vancouver entered two motor races 2,800 miles apart during the weekend and did well in both.

At Mosport, Ont., Saturday he drove his Lotus 23-B to second overall in the feature event of the British Empire Trophy races.

His average speed of 87.5 miles per hour was behind the 90.9 m.p.h. of winner Ludwig Neimrath of Toronto, in a Ford-powered McLaren-Elva.

Sunday McLean jetted here, then a helicopter deposited him at the starting area of the Westwood track in nearby Coquitlam.

He drove his Ford-Mustang to victory in the sedan class, lapping all but the second and third-place finishers in the 30-minute event.

No official time was given as McElreath won by a quarter of a lap over Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa.

The caution flag was out for 36 laps and drivers Mel Kenyon of Davenport, Iowa, and Ralph Liquori of Tampa, Fla., were taken to hospital after a collision on the third turn of the 27th lap.

In the debut of Langhorne's D-shaped asphalt track, previously dirt, Andretti set a record by qualifying at 118.187 miles per hour. The previous record was set by Don Branson of Champaign, Ill., at 113.841 m.p.h. in 1960.

Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., was third followed by Art Fingelstad of Speedway City, Ind., and Billy Foster of Victoria, B.C.

The caution flag was out four times during the race and a 40-minute delay resulted after the Kenyon-Liquori mishap. Cars driven by Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., and Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y., also were involved in the accidents.

Neither was injured.

Kenyon suffered burns of the left leg, while Liquori had slight burns and bruises about the face.

Earlier in the race, Arnold Knepper of Belleville, Ill., was forced out when his car caught

Lusty Batting By Rob Wilson Sparks Incogs

Rob Wilson. He's the chap who seems to be dominating Victoria and District Cricket Association activity these days.

You won't get much of an argument on that score from the players and spectators who Sunday watched Wilson's bat provide the spark that carried Incogs to victory in the sixth annual six-a-side knockout tournament at the Beacon Hill Park pitch.

Incogs defeated Albion seconds 83-56 to capture the J. R. Mainwaring Trophy.

FIVE SIXES

Wilson scored 49 not out, including an astonishing five sixes, to spark Incogs in the final. Wilson and batting partner Geoff Roper counted 35 runs off one over.

In the semifinals, Incogs defeated Oak Bay 58-51 with Wilson scoring 29 before being caught by Gil Ferreira.

In the other semifinal, perhaps the day's most exciting match, Cowichan, batting first, scored 68 runs for the loss of only two wickets. Albion replied in splendid fashion, scoring 70 runs with only two balls remaining to be played in the last over.

Mike Ali, 22 not out, and Marvin Richards, 27 not out, saved the game for Albion against seemingly impossible odds.

GREAT PRODUCTION

Earlier, Cowichan established a tournament record by scoring 88 runs.

In all, a total of 724 runs were scored for the loss of only 39 wickets during the day.

In regular league play Saturday, Cowichan rebounded from its first loss of the season to score a 13-run triumph over Alcos. Cowichan was all out for 124 while Alcos replied with only 111.

In another league match, Oak

Bay defeated Castaways by eight wickets. Castaways were all out for 60 and Oak Bay quickly scored 61 for the loss of only two wickets.

Cowichan	GP	W	L	T	Pts.
Incogs	7	5	2	0	10
Alcos	7	4	3	0	8
Oak Bay	7	3	4	0	6

RACING ROUNDUP

B.C. Owner Connects

(Times News Services)

Or et Argent, a French-bred four-year-old gelding, owned by Colin Campbell of Vancouver, came up a big winner Saturday at Aqueduct.

Sticking its nose in front one-eighth of a mile from home, Or et Argent staved off the challenge of Hot Dust for a half-length victory in the $59,500 Bowling Green Handicap.

Walter Blum, top rider in the U.S. for the past two years, sent the Vancouver gelding over the 1 1/4-mile course in stake record time of 2:40.6. Or et Argent paid $15.30, $6.70 and $4.50, and earned $38,312 for its owner.

At Hollywood Park, South American entry Tronardo won the $50,000-added Ingelwood Handicap. Hill Rise was second and Quadrangle third after Viking Spirit was disqualified for interference after placing third.

And at Exhibition Park in Van-cover, a weekend crowd of 7,574 bet $287,000 and saw two track records set in eight races.

Fairman set a record of 1:41.8 for one mile and 70 yards in the featured Lieutenant-Governor's Handicap, and Why Him won the eighth in record time of 1:55.4 for the mile and one-eighth.

Early August Opening Set for New Centre

Furniture
To Cost
$17,786

Opening of the Senior Citizens' Centre in Centennial Square will take place during the first week of August, it was decided today.

Centennial Square Committee recommended spending a total of $17,786 for furniture and equipment.

The committee decided not to call tenders for the job because of the delay it would involve. Instead they decided to recommend all the furniture and equipment be purchased from the suppliers that equipped the rebuilt City Hall.

Delays have already pushed the formal opening date ahead one month.

EXTERIOR SCREEN

The committee, headed by Ald. A. W. Toone, also decided to recommend to council that a contract be let to cover the renovated police station with $18,000 worth of exterior screen.

City manager Dennis Young told the committee if there were any further delays in letting the contract there might be an increase in costs.

In other committee business it was decided to ask council to approve spending $61,167 to furnish and equip the McPherson Restaurant in Centennial Square.

Committee decided to approve the expenditure on the recommendation of the city manager.

The original plan was for the city to provide only the non-essential equipment to establish the decor of the restaurant and the lessee would then be responsible for the major essential equipment.

'UNATTRACTIVE'

Mr. Young said in a report to the committee: "It has become evident that a venture directly controlled by a municipal corporation and is dependent upon the theatre's success is unattractive for a large private investment."

"Since most businessmen expect to write off their capital investment within the term of the lease as well as show a profit, the amount of money that could be prudently invested in the restaurant on a five-year lease basis is not sufficient to provide the essential equipment."

A further recommendation of the committee is that the restaurant be leased to Clifford Clarke, operator of the Coach and Four Restaurant.

ONE OF FIVE

Mr. Clarke's application was one of five considered.

The money for furnishing the restaurant is expected to come from three sources, a previous allocation of $7,500; $20,000 from the McPherson bequest and $33,667 from the tax sale lands fund.

Young Driver Breaks Jaw In Pole Crash

A 21-year-old driver suffered chest injuries and broke his jaw when his car hit a telephone pole at Shelbourne and McRae shortly after 3 Sunday morning.

Frederick Carver, 2916 Queenston, is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Saanich police said his car was a total wreck. Damage is estimated at about $2,000.

An accident at Hillside and Rose Saturday night sent motorcyclist Kenneth Briggs, 18, of 1702 Newton, to hospital with a fractured thigh.

He is in good condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital. City police said Briggs was in collision with a car driven by Stephen Russell, 3054 Carroll. Both vehicles were proceeding south on Rose at the time.

RED ENSIGN CLUB forming here today is irked by this picture showing the Maple Leaf flying over HMS Victory, Nelson's flagship, now preserved at Portsmouth, England. Maple Leaf was run up on Victoria Day in recognition of visiting Canadian ship HMCS Bonaventure. "We want to restore the red ensign on all our memorials," said George Burnham, club organizer from Abbotsford. Later he hopes Tories will gain government and restore the red ensign for general use.

THE MAPLE LEAF NOT FOREVER?

Holding his flag aloft, George Burnham launched Victoria's Red Ensign Club in a second-floor room of Douglas Hotel here this morning.

Within 15 minutes of his arrival from Abbotsford he had signed up 20 members.

Five of them paid their $1 membership fee in advance.

Mr. Burnham's visit here had been announced Friday and red ensign adherents were waiting his arrival. They walked into his room behind him.

There were 10 people there when the Times came. One man saluted gravely before the former Canadian flag, while the camera clicked.

"It's a question of dictatorship or freedom. We can't put up with it any longer," said Mr. Burnham in reference to the adoption of the Maple Leaf flag by Canada this year.

He said his Red Ensign Club members will raise funds for an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada aimed at having the flag change ruled unconstitutional.

Then at the next election, the Progressive Conservative party will be returned to office.

'IN HARMONY'

"They will restore the flag. They will never turn us down," said Mr. Burnham.

He said Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton "is in harmony with us." Mr. Chatterton has invited Mr. Burnham to a Tory rally tonight in honor of party leader John Diefenbaker.

"I hope to meet him," he also hopes to sign Mr. Chatterton into the club.

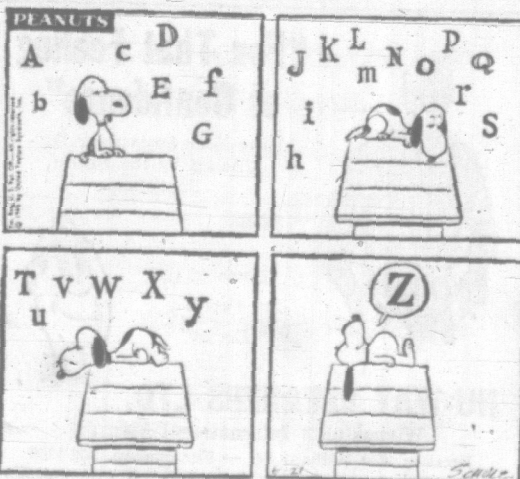

Mr. Burnham says he has 100 members in a mainland branch of his club and he's looking for another 100 here. He says the club is organized under the Societies Act. The $1 annual dues will go to education. Fifty cents goes to the branch and 50 cents to headquarters, he adds.

BY 1967

"Our centennial project is the restoration of the red ensign by 1967. You will see our club grow like a mushroom," said Mr. Burnham.

He said also that though he disagrees with adoption of the new flag, his club will break no laws, nor will he criticize the Queen for approving the change.

"I don't blame the Queen. I sent her a letter of condolences," he stated.

... AND NOW IT'S REALLY SUMMER

Summer came to Victoria at 7:50 a.m. today.

Feel warmer? If you do it's a psychological effect because 62 degrees is top of the mark according to the weatherman—"coolish for this time of year."

And if it was mainly sunny today it isn't expected to last. There will be increasing cloud Tuesday.

If you haven't had your holidays yet, get cracking. From now on it gets lighter later and darker sooner. But there still should be plenty of time to get a tan.

The sun that has seeped through to Victoria has been well above normal so far this year, which might indicate there's more to come.

Luckiest are those away from the waterfront where a 15-mile-per-hour breeze is capable of cooling the tepal.

Hospital Discussion Wednesday

A special meeting of Saanich council has been called for 5 p.m. Wednesday to discuss the planned provincial government Retarded Children's Hospital near Colquitz Jail.

The meeting, which is not expected to be open to the public, likely will provide the basis for further discussions between Saanich and the provincial government.

Last Friday, Saanich officials met with the provincial public works department and a prime topic was disposal of sewage from the hospital.

The government has applied to discharge 90,000 gallons daily from a treatment plant into a tributary of Colquitz Creek, which flows into Portage Inlet.

Potato Price To Drop Slightly

B.C.'s potato famine is nearly over and prices, the highest in years, are expected to drop slightly.

Bulk shipments from Vancouver Island plantations, which will start arriving on the market this week, will make the difference.

Ed Gilmore, secretary-manager of the B.C. Marketing Board, said potato prices will be reviewed within the next few days as new supplies start arriving for marketing.

GRADUAL

But he predicted only a slight price reduction.

"The long-range forecast is for prices to remain firm," he said. "There will be a gradual reduction, but prices will not drop as low as they were a year ago."

Prices climbed steadily in the past six weeks because of a shortage in B.C. and other potato-growing areas in North America.

In the last few months, B.C. has been mostly dependent on California supplies.

12-13¢ A POUND

Potatoes are retailing between 12 or 13 cents a pound, compared to seven cents last fall.

A 100-pound sack a year ago retailed for $3. Today U.S. imports sell at $8 a sack wholesale.

Starting Wednesday, the Vegetable Co-operative Association, Market Street, an agency of the marketing board, will start receiving supplies of earlies from local growers.

This year's shortage is due to three reasons:

1. Growers cut down on production last year because it did not pay. Prices were too low.
2. Weather conditions and disease caused widespread damage to crops in most parts of North America, further reducing supplies.
3. The demand for potatoes from the processing industry was heavier than usual.

F. S. McKINNON
... starts July 1

McKINNON NAMED DEPUTY

F. S. "Fin" McKinnon has been appointed the new deputy minister of forests.

He replaces retiring R. G. McKee who was recently appointed chairman of the British Columbia purchasing commission, a position left vacant when G. E. P. Jones, former chairman, was fired by special government order.

Mr. McKinnon has been chief forester in B.C. since 1959.

Taking over the vacant position of chief forester is L. F. Swannell, previously assistant chief forester in charge of operations.

John S. Stokes, now assistant chief forester in charge of planning, will assume new duties as assistant chief in charge of operations while Ian T. Cameron, district forester in Vancouver, takes over as assistant chief forester in charge of planning.

All appointments become effective July 1 with the exception of Mr. Cameron's move to the assistant chief forester spot.

"We did not think it wise to move Mr. Cameron until the forest fire season, which looks like being a bad one, is over," Mr. Williston said. "He will move to Victoria as soon as the fire peak is over."

4 Islanders Chosen For Village

Four Vancouver Island delegates have been chosen to attend the Children's International Summer Village at Shawanigan Lake this summer.

Chosen Saturday to represent southern Vancouver Island were Trudy Clark, 12, of 1711 Green Oaks Terrace, and Andrew Peter, 11, of 1259 Oliver.

Up-Island delegates chosen Saturday and Sunday were Trudy Walsh, 10, of Strathmore Street, Nanaimo, and Clair Deninger of Lake Cowichan.

10 COUNTRIES

The Vancouver Island children will be among 40 others from 10 countries who will be attending the summer village.

Children's International Summer Villages were first established in 1951 in Cincinnati and are now established in more than 25 countries on five continents.

ALMOST LOST in the foliage of an outside cow parsnip is Freeman King, who spotted the plant on Heimcken near Burns. It measures 10 feet in height and four inches in diameter at the butt, about double normal size, with flower heads of up to 18 inches diameter. Provincial botanist Dr. Adam F. Szczawinski said it probably is in a pocket of fertile, moist soil. He added cow parsnip is not poisonous but warned poison hemlock might be confused with it. Poison hemlock has a similar large, white flower but its leaves are different, resembling parsley or feather-like ferns.

'LOGICAL' MOVE

Campbell Answers Critics

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today defended his decision to approve a 400-home subdivision near John Dean Park in North Saanich.

Referring to criticisms that the project is leapfrog development leading to urban sprawl, he said slopes of Mount Newton in Central Saanich are being developed on half-acre lots.

He said development already is occurring along Dean Park and McTavish roads in North Saanich where there are at least 155 houses.

The proposed subdivision was a logical extension of this development, linking both sides of the peninsula.

His department was "chary" of the notion that two-acre zoning, which exists in rural North Saanich, was the only defence against sprawl.

USELESS

In Surrey, near Vancouver, after the Second World War, subdivision was restricted to two and five acres, but proved useless because people rushed to build homes even with these restrictions.

Asked whether he should not have waited until North Saanich becomes incorporated, which it is expected to do shortly, he said he agrees it is preferable for local government to look after its own development.

But individuals have the right to apply for zoning changes and it would be "completely immoral" to say they should be denied this right.

He declined to give an opinion when asked if an incorporated North Saanich would have power to make zoning regulations to prevent the development taking place.

Under the minister's quality control plan, in which a comprehensive zone is established containing rigid development conditions, minimum lot size will be half an acre—but services must be established.

His conditions for approving the development, agreed to by the developer—Dean Park Estates Limited—include guaranteed water supply; sanitary sewage disposal; paved roads; storm drains and street lighting. He believed the ridge site, along with others in the area, must have a quality control plan.

'CONCERNED'

At the same time, the chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board, Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay, said the group is "very concerned" about the subdivision's approval.

He pointed out the North Saanich Planning Report said leapfrog development should be avoided.

The board sent its planner, Tony Roberts, to public hearings to voice opposition to the subdivision.

The plan envisaged an orderly growth from existing centres of population.

DEFER DECISION

Speaking personally, and not as the board chairman, he said the only proper course for Mr. Campbell to take would be to defer a decision until North Saanich residents decided on incorporation.

If it was accepted that planning was good for the whole, then some individual rights must be limited.

The approval could set a dangerous precedent because of heavy land acquisition in the last few years.

All the planning done by the board now appeared to be wasted, "although I hope not."

Digging Started For $1.4 Million Federal Building

Construction of a $1,400,000 new federal building for Victoria has begun and should be completed within 14 months.

The two-storey building, on Vancouver Street between Pandora and Johnson, will house the income tax department and National Employment Service.

Excavation began today and is expected to take two to four weeks. Another two or three weeks will be required to drive in more than 100 supporting steel piles before the foundation is poured.

July 31 Vote Set In North Saanich

A plebiscite to determine whether North Saanich will become a separate municipality has been set for July 31.

Deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown said today residents will vote on two questions—whether they want incorporation or to remain an unorganized district.

A vote on alternatives, such as amalgamation with Sidney and Central Saanich, was

Topics of the Day

A 17-year-old youth pleaded guilty in Oak Bay court today to uttering $420 worth of forged cheques between Feb. 12 and May 19.

John Martin, 1535 Prospect Place, was remanded to June 25 for sentence.

Det.-Sgt. Vic Pratley said Martin deposited the forged cheques in his account at an Oak Bay bank. His mother made restitution of $420 and Martin told the court that the "money will be paid back."

A 22-year-old Vancouver man was fined $300 this morning in Colwood court for impaired driving.

William Redmond, 1529 Cornox Street, Vancouver, was arrested after an accident on Trans-Canada Highway at Goldstream Park Saturday afternoon.

A shoe is not a safe place to keep car keys while you go swimming.

That's what Miss Patricia Burch, 1179 Lockley, discovered Sunday afternoon when she went swimming with her boy friend at Beaver Lake.

She left the car keys in her shoe. When she came out of the water the keys were gone. Then she checked her car and found that a watch, glasses and cash totalling $133 was missing.

A long-time resident of Victoria, Mrs. Sarah Margaret Dinsmore, 84, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday.

Born in Bruce County, Ont., Mrs. Dinsmore had lived in Victoria since 1888, and was a member of First Baptist Church for many years.

She is survived by her husband, James, of 1422 Harrison, and by a niece and several cousins.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 3 p.m. in McCall Bros. main chapel with Rev. John Watson officiating, with interment at Ross Bay Cemetery.

The summer art show along the Causeway of the Inner Harbour was set up Saturday.

The showing is put on by the Victoria Society of Artists and this summer marks the fifth year of the show.

As many as 30 paintings will be on display Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

DEAR ABBY...

Whys and Wherefores!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the expectant mother who didn't want her husband to see her without dentures, so she refused to take them out and give them to the nurse. I am a surgical nurse and I know the importance of removing dentures. When fully explained to the patient, I have yet to find one who would not readily remove them. If a patient receives anesthesia, or loses consciousness even temporarily, instruments may have to go into the mouth. Artificial teeth may break or become dislodged, and it's entirely possible for the patient to swallow a piece of broken denture or to gag and choke on it. This is a mighty high price to pay for pride.

their mouths during surgery or delivery. I work in the laundry at a hospital, and I wish I had a dime for every time we got a call from upstairs asking us to look for some idiot's bridgework or dentures. Some patients will actually lie when they're asked if they have any removable plates in their mouths. When they are discovered and we take them out, they either get lost or mixed up with the sheets, and the patients yell their heads off about OUR carelessness!

DISGUSTED

DEAR ABBY: I am also a nurse who didn't take up nursing to fight the patients, but I have fought a few in my time. I'll never forget the wrestling match I had with a 240-pounder who refused to take off his money belt when we were preparing him for an emergency kidney stone operation.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Here Are Tanning Tips For All Sun-Lovers

By PENNY SAVER

My niece was complaining to me the other day about her freckles. Every summer she goes out to get a sun-tan and every summer she breaks out in a mass explosion of freckles. I think they are rather nice—I have a large number of 'em myself. But she has been trying everything to remove them—washing her face in buttermilk and lemon juice and all sorts of things like that.

However, there is just no way to get rid of them. I think she secretly rather likes them—they look very charming on her—or else she's hoping they'll join together and form a tan.

If you can't remove freckles, you can concentrate on a nice tan to complement them. For those with tender skin—sensitive to the sun—I have found a special tanning foam with a newly-formulated, sun-screening agent to protect tender skin.

Selling for $2, this lotion, a product of a well-known cosmetic house, is absolutely not greasy. There is nothing to stick to clothing and stain. If you're trying to gain a tan on the beach, don't worry about sand clinging—there's nothing sticky to hold it with.

Sun-bathers (sensitive-skinned ones in particular) should take note of another protective measure I discovered, selling for $1.50. This is designed to safeguard the tender parts of the face, mouth, eyelids, and the old favorite, the nose.

This comes in a lipstick form, in a clear non-greasy shade which spreads a protective screening film over the surface. The lubricants it contains moisturize the skin and soften it, prevent chapping or peeling.

For normal skin, there is a new type of jelly to screen harmful sun-rays while tanning. This particular jelly is perfect for travelling. It is so compact, it will fit anywhere—purse, beach bag or beach-coat pocket. Price is $2.

Don't forget, Penny's number is 382-3131 if you want to know where to shop.

BPW Friendship Weekend To Be Marked In Seattle

Members of the British Columbia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will travel to Seattle, Wash., to attend the two-day session of the third annual Canadian-American Friendship Weekend, to be held next Saturday and Sunday. A banquet is planned for Saturday, when Mayor J. D. Braman of Seattle will extend greetings to Canadian guests. Other special guests will be representatives of the Canadian and British consulates and president of Washington State Federation of BPWC, Mrs. Beatrix McElroy, Spokane.

Guest speaker at the affair, being convened by vice-president of Washington State Federation, BPWC, Mrs. James Young, will be Dr. Irene Peden, associate professor of electrical engineering, University of Washington. Her topic will be "New Horizons for Women."

A motor tour of the city is planned and also a continental brunch on Sunday.

Pink and White Summer Flowers Decorate Church for Wedding

Baskets of pink peonies, white snapdragons and stocks decorated St. Aidan's United Church, recently, when Rev. C. Leighton Straight officiated at the double-ring ceremony uniting Sharon Rose Boyd and John Boyd York in marriage.

Organist was Mrs. Vera Barclay.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Wiper, 2532 Trans-Canada Highway, and George Boyd, Quesnel, B.C. The groom's parents are Mrs. Richard Rawlinson, 2620 Killarney Road, and Mr. Lloyd York, Langford.

Given in marriage by Merle Buck, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white embroidered organza styled with a full, tiered skirt. The fitted bodice of the gown featured a sweetheart neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Her tiered veil of silk illusion net misted from a jeweled coronet. White gardenias and pink roses were in her cascade bouquet.

TAFETTA GOWNS

Matching gowns of shell pink taffeta, styled with bell-shaped skirts, were the choice of maid of honor, Miss Georgina Boyd, the bride's sister, and bridesmaid, Miss Donalda Anthony. Toning headpieces, edged with chapel veils, and cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations completed the outfits.

A similar frock and headpiece was worn by flower girl Brenda Buck. She carried a basket of pink and white carnations.

David Cliff was best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with white ribbons were Douglas Ross and Terry Hutt.

Two doves, holding wedding rings, topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table for the reception following in the Club Soho. Pink tulle surrounded the cake and silver vases of pink roses completed table decorations.

Richard Rawlinson proposed the toast to the bride.

Following a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs, the couple will make their home in Vancouver.

From Missouri

Presently visiting Victoria from her home in St. Louis, Mo., is Mrs. H. Kaufman. While here, she is staying at the Empress Hotel for three months.

For travelling, the bride chose a pink and white linen suit, accented with accessories en tone.

The ensemble was topped with a Russian squirrel stole, gift of the groom.

The spacious grounds of the home of Capt. David Groos, MP, and Mrs. Groos at 1003 Newport Avenue will be scene of a garden party Wednesday. The affair is being arranged by Carme Rebekah Lodge No. 45, IOOF, and will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Mrs. O. Green, at left, will officially open the party. Convener is Mrs. M. Graham, centre, and receiving guests will be Mrs. D. Burkholder, noble/grand, at right. There will be stalls of home cooking, aprons, fancywork, home-made candy and other items. A cake-walk and afternoon tea will be featured.

Olive Diefenbaker Comes 'Home'

"I think the nicest welcome I ever had," said Mrs. John Diefenbaker, "was when I walked into the hotel this morning and the manager said, 'Welcome home.'"

Mrs. Diefenbaker was addressing the Progressive Conservative Women's Association at a tea held in her honor in the Empress Hotel, Saturday afternoon. She thanked the association for a bouquet of roses and carnations, presented to her by Mrs. R. C. Campbell.

At cries of "Speech, Speech!" from George Chatterton, MP, Mrs. Diefenbaker just smiled and replied, "I leave the speech-making to the member of the family who does it best!"

Mr. Chatterton said he felt "very brave and courageous" being the only man among the more than 50 guests who attended. He was joined later, however, by a surprise guest, David Fulton.

Talking with guests, Mrs. Diefenbaker related some little anecdotes about her husband who was up-island fishing at the time. "I never go fishing with him," she said, "he moves so quickly. I couldn't keep up with him. Besides, I'd feel terribly in the way."

NEW PET

"We recently acquired a golden retriever dog, Happy, who accompanies my husband on his morning walks. Happy is very friendly, but strictly a one-man dog—I've tried to keep in the background where the dog is concerned—and in other matters too."

Mrs. Diefenbaker told how two young neighbors were sitting outside their house, discussing the Diefenbaker animal. One little girl said, "do you think it's a girl dog or a boy dog?" The other answered, "It's a boy dog, naturally"—with heavy evidence on the naturally. "That settled the argument right there," Mrs. Diefenbaker laughed. "She sounded just like my husband."

Receiving guests at the affair were president Mrs. H. Denham, Mrs. D. C. F. MacArthur, Mrs. R. C. Campbell and Mrs. O. Wilson. Mrs. A. Ashford was in charge of tickets.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Golden Anniversary

Celebrating their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday are Canon and Mrs. A. J. Williams, 208 Robertson Street. The couple was married in Kaitang, China, on June 24, 1915. Canon Williams is the assistant rector at St. John's Anglican Church. To mark the occasion, Canon and Mrs. Williams will be honored at tea in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Williams, 2574 Cavendish Avenue. ## WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Try Blowing a Feather; It's Fun, Good for You

Remember the old song "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles"? I knew a woman once who was forever blowing a feather around the room—yes, a feather! What's more, she had the youngest looking neck imaginable for a woman of 50. In fact, many women of 35 have older looking necks than she.

For years this friend had been indulging in the exercise of trying to keep a feather in the air by blowing on it. She tried not to let it touch the floor. You can see why this would be a splendid neck exercise. The muscles are tensed and the head moves about, from side to side and up and down. It's fun, too, and you also get some bends and twists for the waistline which are slimming.

If you can tell a horse's age by its teeth you can usually tell a woman's age by her neck. Yet much can be done to delay this sign of age. The physical aspects of aging are acquired gradually and neglect is a factor. The three important aspects are good posture, scientific exercise and regular lubrication.

Do not "lead" with your chin or duck it into your neck. Try to hold it parallel to the floor. Do exercises regularly. Lubricate the skin of your neck as faithfully as you do that of your face.

Try feather blowing. It is really hilarious and you can feel it where you need it, in the chinline and neck and face. The following is also a fine motion toward beauty. Lie across the bed with your head and shoulders hanging off the edge of the bed. Raise your head and touch your chin to your chest. Lower head and continue, slowly.

Try to learn to sleep without a pillow, or with only a small one. This will smooth out the lines of your neck and relieve the pull of gravity from your cheeks.

BE SMART—

Seen at a recent opening, an inspired idea for formal summer evenings when just a dress seems not enough: A cutaway evening coat in rustle black silk taffeta, closed with a huge Empire bow.

Highlights and Listings

The odds were stacked in favor of the viewer Friday as Terry Thomas took a light-hearted look at the urge to gamble.

The British comedian was narrator-participant of ABC-TV's "Everybody Got a System" which tried to answer the "burning questions": Is gambling a nerve tonic; a cure for boredom; a substitute for sex?

None of the questions were really answered and if you were looking for the answer then you were on the losing end of the stick. But it was a gamble that an answer would be found.

The nearest it came to something definite was a view by a British gambling house operator who termed gamblers addicts. He said gambling was a vice which was only cured when you're broke.

But it proved fun to listen to people's reasons for gambling. For instance:

- Gambling is life, because life is a gamble.
- People don't mind betting with money; in fact, they like it.
- People don't mind long odds. They don't give a hang. It's like throwing a bottle in the ocean — you don't expect an answer, but you might get one.
- When betting on horses, it's amazing how knowing people seem to be.

There was also fun when Thomas guided viewers through a British betting parlor where selections were made, money laid down and the race heard via a loud-speaker.

Sport

- 10:00: Channel 11: Top Star Wrestling.
- 11:30: Channel 2: Sports Finals.

Headliners

- 7:00: Channel 4: Expedition. Huge unexplored caves, sinister-looking rock formations and plant and animal life previously believed extinct were found by English scientists in British Guiana as film recalls.
- 8:00: Channel 2, 6: Show of the Week. Finale features impressionist Little Riddle, singer Betty Robertson, the Billy Van Four, vocal group; folksingers Walke and Jose, Phil Nimmmons' 'n' Nine, jazz group, and the Kevin Carlyle dancers.
- 9:00: Channel 5: Andy Williams' guests are composer Henry Mancini and singers Viv Damone and Bobby Darin. Also George and Olive Osmond and Nick Castle and his dancers.

"It was," quipped Thomas, "like watching a regatta from a submarine."

The hour-long program bounced between England and the United States in studying human gambling behavior.

It proved nothing except, perhaps, that no matter where people part with their money or which method they employ... human nature has no boundaries, it's international.

"Roll along wavy Navy, roll along, Roll along wavy Navy, roll along, If they ask us who we are, We're the RCNVR, Roll along wavy Navy, roll along."

The tune was picked out by a background guitar while CBC-TV's Telescope saluted the navy's role during the Second World War.

There must have been many memories stirred by those who served on such as Saguenay, Restigouche, Sherbrooke, Huron, Kamsack and Haida.

Admiral Harry G. DeWolf's recollections and William H. Pugsley's script and never-before-seen film brought Telescope into very sharp and worthy focus on Canada's salts and ships.

ABC-TV's first live coverage of a sports event via Early Bird proved a dud Saturday. With a ground failure in a German relay station, the Le Mans special was just another radio broadcast. Better luck with the Irish on Saturday next.

10:00: Channel 2, 6: Ferment. The series concludes with a discussion of the future of the parish in suburban areas and large cities in North America and Britain.

10:00: Channel 7: CBS News Special. Viet Nam Dialog: Mr. Bundy and the Professors. McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the president, debates U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Tonight's Movies

8:30: Channel 12: Abbott and Costello meet Captain Kidd (1952). A bumbling waiter at the Dead's Head Tavern is persuaded to search for treasure after he finds Captain Kidd's secret map.

7:00: Channel 7: Mrs. O'Malley and Mr. Malone (1950). A crime-fiction fan becomes a detective's confederate. Marjorie Main, James Whitmore.

9:00: Channel 12: Sirocco (1951). A man risks his life smuggling guns to Syrians battling the French during the '20s. Humphrey Bogart, Lee J. Cobb.

11:00: Channel 12: The Quiet American (1958). The body of a young murdered American is found in a river in Saigon. Audie Murphy, Michael Redgrave.

11:30: Channel 7: I Was a Communist for the FBI (1951). Matt Cvetle poses as a member of the Communist party in Pittsburgh. Frank Lovejoy, Dorothy Hart.

11:30: Channel 2: Met by Moonlight (1957, English). Two British officers attempt to kidnap the German commander-in-chief on the island of Crete. Dirk Bogarde, Marius Goring.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Shirley MacLaine thinks she and Frank Sinatra would make a great combination for the film version of "Funny Girl." No word on where that would leave Barbra Streisand. Or where it would leave the story of the show—as witness what happened with "Irma La Douce." But Hollywood bankers are primarily fascinated by box office appeal, so don't bet against Shirley's notion. . . . Depressed areas in the United States soon will be favored with public works projects comparable to those of the 1932 era—$700,000,000 will be handed out just for starters. . . . The international airlines are indebted to LBJ for asking U.S. vacationers not to go abroad, and suggesting that next year the travellers might be taxed $100 apiece for crossing the ocean. To quote one airline executive:

"The minute President Johnson suggested Americans stay home instead of going to Europe, our reservations doubled; When there was a report that a $100 tax would be imposed on those who did travel abroad reservations tripled."

Movie actor George Raft is apt to make headlines via a tax rap. . . . Friends hear Judy Holliday died broke. Five years of illness took her bank account clean. . . . The fast-climbing record, "Frankfurter Sandwiches," bills its artists as "The Streamliners with Joan." There ain't no such animals, really; but to this ear the combination sounds like a spoofing Ted Heath band with Dorothy Squires doing the rinky-dink vocal. . . . Now that the wild summer season is on, speculators are getting $75 a pair for tickets to "Hello, Dolly" and $45 for "Funny Girl." "Fiddler" is a hit manufactured by the critics; it isn't worth all that much unless you care about the tribulations of an old man trying to marry off his daughters. The others are entertaining—from "very" to "vastly." . . . The Broadway reaction to Sybil Burton's marriage to a very young fellow:

"Why not? After all she's been through. She deserves a bit of excitement. She can't sit in a discotheque night after night snapping her fingers to the beat of the frug while Richard has all the fun."

Joni James exultantly proclaims that she broke Jimmy Durante's 10-year attendance record at Palumbo's in Philadelphia. . . . Gina Lollobrigida and her director-were due in an Italian court June 15 to answer charges of "obscenity" in the flicker titled "The Dolls." Actress Virna Lisi is in trouble for her contribution to the same picture. . . . Get ready. Bell-bottomed trousers threaten to become a new style for men. . . . Terence Stamp, who won first prize in Cannes for his performance in "The Collector," arrives in New York for promotion on the film. He had only one request to make of the Columbia Pictures staff: he asked them to be sure that his co-star, Samantha Eggar, was out of town while he visited here. Their feud is a real one. . . . Jaime Sanchez, who appeared in the dreary flicker, "The Pawnbroker," as Red Steiger's young store helper, wants to quit show business and return to his native Puerto Rico. He's putting the $500 he won from the Clarence Derwent Awards toward helping his sister open a swinging bar in San Juan. (That's a funny item for the contributors to the theatre awards, who are always so idealistic. They give an actor five big ones to encourage him to act, and he skips away to open a saloon.)

Watch a Young Man Who's Bound to Go Places

Newspaperboys have a habit and tradition of moving ahead and reaching the top. Leaders in every business and profession have come from their ranks.

That's because a newspaper carrier-salesman learns to shoulder responsibilities by running his own business. He learns the thrill of profits, the importance of good service, the discipline of keeping financial records, the benefits of thrift.

So a good boy to know and to follow as he matures is the youngster who delivers your daily newspaper. He has the makings of a winner.

a boy profits... a boy learns from his

Beatles Rattled By Yelling Girls

PARIS (AP) — They usually stage professional brawls at the Palais des Sports here, but Sunday night the amateurs did a pretty fair job when the Beatles showed up.

About 5,000 Beatles fans, mostly teen-age girls and boys, went mildly mad when the four shaggy-haired English pop-singers came on the stage, and the din was deafening.

Then some of the girls sent up such a din that nobody, including the Beatles, could hear the music.

Even the Beatles couldn't take it and they bowed courteously and faded into the wings.

That did it.

Somebody threw a chair.

Somebody else threw a punch.

In a few seconds the joint was really jumping and the police went into action.

The gardes took their lumps trying to restore order and they ordered up water-pumping wagons.

When the first howling teen-agers hit the two entrance doors they were dampened down.

SPCA Essay Winners Get Prizes

Ten girls and two boys received prizes Saturday afternoon for their essays on the care of pets.

They were the winners of a city-wide essay contest promoted by the SPCA in Greater Victoria schools. Prizes were presented at the society's new animal shelter at Napier and Burnside.

Norman Cribbens of The Victoria Times and Don Galt of The Daily Colonist were judges and presented awards:

Nine years and under—1. Delver Connors, Lampson Street School; 2. Kathryn Haley, St. Patrick's; 3. Teresa Morris, St. Patrick's.

Twelve years and under—Maureen Nuttall, St. Patrick's; 2. David Cheeseman, Quadra Elementary; 3. John Phillion, Craigflower.

Fourteen and under—1. Donna Wing, North Ward; 2. Christine Kintoff, Oulands Elementary; 3. Monica Thistle, St. Patrick's.

Fifteen to 18—1. Jani Padgett, Esquimalt Senior High; 2. Diana Ingram, Oak Bay Senior High; 3. Barbara Mander, St. Ann's Academy.

Capt. Douglas Prentice, president of Victoria SPCA, and D. H. Beeching, secretary-manager, thanked the judges and Mrs. Nora Foster, convener of the contest.

TOURED SHELTER

Members and friends then toured the new shelter, which was opened May 1 by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

Michael Miriams-Harrison, vice-president, revealed that Victoria SPCA found homes for 693 dogs in 1964. During the same period 677 injured animals were treated and 650 ambulance calls answered.

Capt. Prentice said Victoria SPCA now has 600 members, but more are needed.

Shipyard Worker Dies at 62

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for William James Florence, who lived here for all but the first year of his life.

He died Saturday at 62. He was a long-time employee of Yarrows shipyard.

Survivors include the widow, Annie, at home; two daughters, Mrs. L. P. (Annlyn) Lambrick and Mrs. William (Carolyn) Simpson, both of Victoria.

CHILDREN FLEE FIRE IN TEMPLE

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Smoke-filled Calvary Temple here Sunday, sending the 600 children attending Sunday school outside.

When the minor fire erupted in an air-conditioner there was no panic and none of the children were injured.

Mrs. P. A. Gaglardi, wife of Highway Minister Gaglardi, was in charge of the school and marched the children from the building in song—Onward Christian Soldiers.

Mr. Gaglardi, pastor of the Pentecostal Church, was not in Kamloops at the time.

About 200 of the children were in an adjacent building.

Water Lack Critical In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The drought is so severe the city is studying ways of converting sea water into drinking water.

So far, however, proposals submitted by companies would make the conversion too expensive, Armand d'Angelo, commissioner of water supply, gas and electricity, said Saturday.

The cost of 1,000 gallons of water would range from 30 to 40 cents, he said, compared with about 12 cents under the present system.

The Bronx Botanical Gardens has started drawing water from the Bronx River in a desperate effort to keep alive its priceless shrubs and plants. Officials of the gardens have appealed to d'Angelo for relief from his restrictions against lawn sprinkling.

He also has banned using water for car washing and private swimming pools. Restaurants only serve water when it is requested.

Local Briefs

First addition to Victoria city's fleet of mini-cars will cost $1,513.05.

The city called for tenders to supply a miniature car for its inspection division, rather than pay an increase in car allowance asked by an inspector who has been using his own car.

Bids were opened by council and referred to the finance committee for recommendation. Flimley's offered to supply a two-door Austin A30 for $1,513.05.

Willow School PTA has elected its new slate of officers: Stuart B. Smith, president; Jim Williams and K. S. Hurn, vice-presidents; Mrs. R. A. Phillips, secretary; Mrs. R. M. MacKinnon, treasurer.

The bowling group of the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded will hold its final session tonight at 7:30.

Composed of retarded children over 12 years, the event will be held in the Capital City Bowldrome, 966 Yates. Parents have been invited to attend.

Kenneth E. Rennie of Montreal has been elected president of the Certified General Accountant Association.

First vice-president is F. N. Hoar, Fredericton, N.B.; second vice-president, J. S. Dow, Toronto; third vice-president, J. E. Spry, Vancouver, and secretary-treasurer, Professor J. E. Finnie, Montreal. William T. Mann, Victoria, is the immediate past president.

Saturday night swam through 20-foot swells and timed waves to drop them on decks of wallowing Laymore which left here under tow to Clifton Wednesday but was caught in violent storm.

HODGE-PODGE of mortar bombs in hold of Laymore was seen Sunday when ship was towed to Rocky Point after four days of relentless pounding by towering seas and gales reaching up to 70 m.p.h.

Her 17-man crew was forced to take to life raft when towline to Clifton parted and rudder jammed. She had no power as her engines were being prepared for conversion to oceanographic vessel.

Navy Divers Capture Abandoned TNT Ship

By RON SUDLOW

Part-time navy divers, in a daring swim, tamed a bucking, munitions-laden ship which was abandoned two days earlier off Tofino.

The saga of the CNAV Laymore ended in a sheltered bay here Sunday because of the daring swim by the divers.

And for the navy, today was "pretty well routine" as unloading of the auxiliary vessel's cargo of ammunition commenced.

The five-man diving team, under leadership of Lieut. Terry Milne, 26, of 728 Sea Drive, Brentwood, dropped over the side of destroyer-escort HMCS Mackenzie Saturday night.

Laymore, by this time, had drifted 65 miles south of Cape Flattery and was less than 30 miles from land.

ROCKING VIOLENTLY

She was still rocking violently in the 20-foot swells and her decks were awash. But the wind had dropped.

Cmdr. H. J. Wade ordered the warship to pass within 100 yards of the wallowing Laymore—still loaded with 149 tons of obsolete naval ammunition.

The Mackenzie had been standing by the auxiliary vessel ever since it came to aid in the rescue of its 17-man crew Thursday evening.

A boat crew and a diving team had been standing by ready to get a line to the disabled ship for more than two days.

The divers got the call when the wind abated Saturday evening. Other members of the team were AB Andy Stearn, AB Ray Cleugh, PO Alexander Roger and Sub-Lieut. Bruce Johnston.

"Our weather reports indicated more storms for the area," Lieut. Milne said.

WIRE BRIEFS

Transit Strike Over

MONTREAL (CP)—Maintenance-service employees of the Montreal Transportation Commission today voted acceptance of a revised wage offer and the strike of a total of 3,900 workers ended. (See story page 6.)

New Russ Space Test

BOCHUM, Germany (UPI)—The Institute for Satellite and Space Research monitored radio signals of a "new Soviet space experiment today, an institute spokesman announced.

'Little Selma March'

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (UPI)—A group of 50 Negroes, some wearing black armbands, set out on a "little Selma march" today through rural countryside to commemorate the slayings of three civil rights workers one year ago.

Polish Leader Ill

WARSAW (UPI)—Polish Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka is "gravely ill," Western diplomatic sources said today.

More Bridges Bombed

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. and South Vietnamese planes pounded bridges, barracks and other targets in North Viet Nam today. In the ground fighting, 27 government troops and 20 Viet Cong were killed in four sharp clashes, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

Th' peace mission seems t' hev a piece missin'.

They've had more trouble gittin' hold o' the munitions ship than they had gittin' th' spaceman back in th' capsule.

KOREA TREATY RIOT INJURES 90 POLICE

SEOUL (Reuters)—Ninety policemen were injured today battling some 9,000 students protesting the scheduled signing in Tokyo Tuesday of a treaty restoring normal diplomatic relations between Japan and South Korea.

Almost 600 students and 16 other demonstrators were arrested by police firing tear-gas grenades and swinging clubs.

The street demonstrations were the biggest since similar protests over the treaty last April.

Youths Riot In Algiers Against Coup

ALGIERS (AP)—Crowds of youths took to the streets in Algiers today to demonstrate in favor of deposed president Ahmed Ben Bella. Troops and police were rushed to the city's centre.

Soldiers fired shots in the air to disperse the crowd which chanted "Viva Ben Bella!" and "Ya-hyuh (long live) Ben Bella!"

Special riot troops of the security police were called out to bolster troops. Some demonstrators were arrested and hustled away.

Nearly 1,000 youths demonstrated Sunday night but were quickly broken up.

For many hours today foreign correspondents were unable to send dispatches out of Algiers.

HELD IN ARMP CAMP

The demonstrators were not all students. Some veiled Moslem women were among them, shrilly crying out for Ben Bella, who is reported held in an army camp near the city.

The government of Col. Houari Boumedienne, announced the Afro-Asian conference would open as scheduled in Algiers June 29. A preparatory foreign ministers' meeting is set for Thursday.

All sports events and public gatherings were banned, including an international soccer match between Algeria and the Brazilian world champions.

HEARD SOME SHOOTING

Reuters news agency said travellers arriving in Algiers reported hearing shooting for several hours Sunday in Oran, western Algeria. Telephone lines with the city were cut and no more details were available. Boumedienne held a secret session with his ruling revolutionary council Sunday. One of the topics probably discussed was Ben Bella's fate.

The new government has denounced Ben Bella as a "disloyal traitor."

30 EUROPEANS FACING DEATH IN CONGO

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—A survivor reported that Congolese rebels slaughtered police in a village 200 miles northeast of Leopoldville today.

They then laid siege to a factory in which 30 Europeans sought refuge.

The report came from a European who fled the village of Nloki and radioed an appeal for help.

The 30 Europeans, including men, women and children, were reported to be armed and fighting for their lives.

The European who escaped and radioed Leopoldville army headquarters said the rebels killed all of the handful of defending police and gendarmes in the village.

LONDON (UPI)—The proposed Viet Nam peace team of the Commonwealth prime ministers pressed plans today for its mission despite snubs from China and North Viet Nam.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai Sunday called the mission a "manoeuvre in support of the United States peace talk hoax." The Hanoi government said it was aimed at carrying out "a peaceful negotiation swindle."

Chou's remarks came at a dinner hosted by United Arab Republic President Nasser.

"This is not the first time that Britain has engaged in such activities, which are diametrically opposed to the position explicitly set forth again and again by the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front (Viet Cong)," he declared.

"MET WITH FAILURE" "Such actions in the past have met with ignominious failure and will not fare any better in the future."

(In London, British newspapers said the rejection by the Asian Reds would torpedo the Commonwealth proposal. "It now seems certain that further preparations will be called off," one newspaper said.)

The North Vietnamese statement rejecting the mission was entitled: "Wilson, a wilful aide of Johnson."

But it is generally believed that it would at least go to Geneva to discuss the outcome with United Nations Secretary-General Thant.

It was hoped that official replies to the mission messages would be received before the Commonwealth conference ends on Friday so that the mission could spell out its plans.

It is believed the peace mission might also receive a joint Commonwealth message to take to the five capitals.

The New China news agency described Britain's Prime Minister as a "traitor."

WITH COMBINED TRI-SERVICE CADET CORPS at attention, men of 2483 Esquimalt Queen's Own Rifles Corps performed flag-lowering duties in last sunset ceremonies of the year on grounds of Legislative Buildings.

QOR Corps won 1965 Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans trophy for best performing group during the three-week display sponsored annually by the city of Victoria.

QOR Cadets Win Best Crops Trophy

Queen's Own Rifles, 2483 Esquimalt Cadet Corps, quickly matched to winning position Saturday in the annual inter-corps sunset ceremonies on the grounds of the Legislative Buildings.

With the corps at attention, RSM Ronald Myers, 18, received the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans Trophy for best performing group from association president, Wally Moir.

The corps was judged 1965 winner by five representatives of the association who witnessed ten ceremonies over the past few weeks by five cadet corps of the Greater Victoria United Cadet Services.

The groups taking part in the flag lowering ceremonies this year, in addition to the QOR Corps, were: Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow; Canadian Scottish 2156 Corps; Royal Canadian Army 5th. Med. Battery 2289 Corps, and Royal Canadian Air Cadets 89 Kinsmen Corps.

The flag lowering ceremonies, sponsored by the City of Victoria, have been carried on for a number of years. More than 400 watched Saturday's final ceremony.

Police Want Information On Rented Truck

Police are still looking for anyone who saw a rented truck used to transport $1,185,165 of stolen money to Victoria around May 19 or 20.

The truck was hired from Avis Rent-a-Truck System of Canada in Victoria. Police believe the truck was driven to Vancouver where the loot was picked up and then returned to Victoria.

The money, stolen in a robbery on a CPR warehouse in Vancouver last April, was recovered last Friday in a rented garage in this city.

The garage was rented May 19, the same day as the truck was hired.

U.S. Financier B. Baruch Dies

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, 94, financier and adviser to U.S. presidents, died Sunday night of a heart attack.

Baruch displayed his financial acumen early in life. After graduating from City College of New York, he began a $3-a-week job and earned more than $1,000,000 by the time he was 30.

He went on to amass many more millions, but lost interest in money for "money's sake" and used it for large donations toward medical research, education and charity.

Born in Camden, S.C., Baruch was taken north by his parents when he was 11.

Baruch was a Jew, of Portuguese-Spanish extraction on his mother's side and German on his father's.

During the First World War, President Woodrow Wilson named Baruch chairman of the war industries board.

OFFERS OWN MONEY

In 1939, with Hitler menacing all of Europe, Baruch offered more than $3,000,000 of his own money to help bring the U.S. army up to date.

After the war Baruch mainly served the government on commissions.

President Harry S. Truman appointed him American delegate to the then new United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. He developed the "Baruch plan" for atomic energy control, but it was rejected by the Russians.

The financier was credited with helping President Herbert Hoover obtain postponement of Allied war debts and of being

'Opry Star Killed'

WILLIAMSBURG, Mo. (UPI)—Death has written another grim chapter in the tragedy-plagued recent history of the Grand Ole Opry music troupe. Country music star Ira Louvin died Sunday in a head-on car crash near here. He was the seventh county and western musician, all active or alumni artists with the Grand Ole Opry, to die in accidents since 1963.

Baruch also was a consultant and friend of presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Normally a Democrat, Baruch supported Eisenhower in 1952 after a coolness developed between Baruch and President Truman. Baruch showed his displeasure by declining to serve on the Democratic party's finance committee in 1948.

He survived one of his closest friends—Sir Winston Churchill—by only five months. Their friendship lasted nearly 50 years.

They exchanged visits regularly and corresponded on a scale unusual in this century. Among the personal papers which Baruch gave Princeton University were more than 700 letters from Churchill to his greatest American friend.

Through Churchill, Baruch befriended another dynamic Londoner, the late Lord Beaverbrook.

Baruch's wife died in 1938. Two of their three children survive—B. M. Baruch Jr. and Mrs. Robert Samstag. A daughter, Miss Belle Wilcox Baruch, died in 1964 at the age of 64.

RABBIT CHASE ENDS IN DEATH FOR CHILDREN

ODESSA, Tex. (UPI)—A young brother and sister trying to catch a rabbit in a steel pipe were electrocuted Sunday.

V. W. Stacy, 35, said he was moving tall grass near their home, 12 miles northeast of Odessa when a rabbit ran from the grass. His children, Donald, 13, and Theresa Ann, 12, gave chase. The rabbit ran into the six-inch pipe.

The children sprayed a water hose into the pipe in an effort to get the rabbit out. When this failed Stacy said they upended the pipe which touched a power line.

Justice of the Peace J. A. Puritoy ruled accidental death by electrocution.

Johnson Seeks Ideas To Boost UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is reported to have asked his chief foreign policy advisers for constructive proposals to strengthen the United Nations which he could advance in a speech Saturday to a UN ceremonial meeting in San Francisco.

The session is scheduled to mark the 20th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter in San Francisco June 26, 1945.

Although Johnson said June 1 he planned to address the meeting, informants believe a final decision on whether to go will depend on whether Johnson feels he can make constructive proposals in the speech.

Among problems for which he seeks ideas is the controversy over UN financing which virtually paralyzed the last General Assembly session.

Russia and several other countries are in arrears on payments of UN peacekeeping assessments whose legality they dispute. The United States seeks to force them to pay up but the matter is stalemated and officials said they see no simple way out.

Learner Fined $25

Edith Speakman, 3570 Beach Drive, was fined $25 on charges of driving without insurance and driving without a licence.

She pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday. She said she was learning to drive her husband's car when involved in a collision in the 1000 block Tattersal, June 5.

Drug Victims Urged To Use Feet, Hooks

COLOGNE, West Germany (Reuters)—Thalidomide babies born without arms should be encouraged to write with their feet and to use hooks rather than artificial hands, 2,500 parents of thalidomide babies were told here Sunday.

Dr. E. Marquardt of Heidelberg University's orthopaedic clinic gave the advice at the first international congress of parents of thalidomide children.

He said the babies should be encouraged to play and work with their feet as much as possible since they could be trained at that stage to perform any task normally done by hand.

The children should write with their feet at school and wear artificial arms only at home. This would give them more self-confidence in public by letting them put their own limbs to work rather than relying on artificial aids, Marquardt said.

The congress was the first held for parents of deformed children, born after the mothers had taken thalidomide, a tranquillizer drug, during pregnancy.

When bereavement comes to a family, it's comforting to know that there is available, 24 hours a day, every day in the year, the experience, kindness and personal interest which we endeavor to extend to every family we are permitted to serve.

Topics of the Day

A 17-year-old youth pleaded guilty in Oak Bay court today to uttering $420 worth of forged cheques between Feb. 12 and May 19.

John Martin, 1535 Prospect Place, was remanded to June 25 for sentence.

Det.-Sgt. Vic Pratley said Martin deposited the forged cheques in his account at an Oak Bay bank. His mother made restitution of $170 and Martin told the court that the "money will be paid back."

A shoe is not a safe place to keep car keys while you go swimming.

That's what Miss Patricia Burch, 1179 Lockley, discovered Sunday afternoon when she went swimming with her boy friend at Beaver Lake.

She left the car keys in her shoe. When she came out of the water the keys were gone.

Then she checked her car and found that a watch, glasses and cash totalling $135 was missing.

A long-time resident of Victoria, Mrs. Sarah Margaret Dinsmore, 84, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday.

Born in Bruce County, Ont., Mrs. Dinsmore had lived in Victoria since 1888, and was a member of First Baptist Church for many years.

She is survived by her husband, James, of 1422 Harrison, and by a niece and several cousins.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 3 p.m. in McCall Bros. main chapel with Rev. John Watson officiating, with interment at Ross Bay Cemetery.

The summer art show along the Causeway of the Inner Harbor was set up Saturday.

The showing is put on by the Victoria Society of Artists and this summer marks the fifth year of the show.

As many as 30 paintings will be on display Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

July 31 Vote Set In North Saanich

A plebiscite to determine whether North Saanich will become a separate municipality has been set for July 31.

Deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown said today residents will vote on two questions—whether they want incorporation or to remain an unorganized district.

A vote on alternatives, such as amalgamation with Sidney and Central Saanich, was

'LOGICAL' MOVE

Campbell Answers Critics

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today defended his decision to approve a 400-home subdivision near John Dean Park in North Saanich.

Referring to criticisms that the project is leapfrog development leading to urban sprawl, he said slopes of Mount Newton in Central Saanich are being developed on half-acre lots.

He said development already is occurring along Dean Park and McTavish roads in North Saanich where there are at least 155 houses.

The proposed subdivision was a logical extension of this development, linking both sides of the peninsula.

His department was "chary" of the notion that two-acre zoning, which exists in rural North Saanich, was the only defence against sprawl.

USELESS

In Surrey, near Vancouver, after the Second World War, subdivision was restricted to two and five acres, but proved useless because people rushed to build homes even with these restrictions.

Asked whether he should not have waited until North Saanich becomes incorporated, which it is expected to do shortly, he said he agrees it is preferable for local government to look after its own development.

But individuals have the right to apply for zoning changes and it would be "completely immoral" to say they should be denied this right.

He declined to give an opinion when asked if an incorporated North Saanich would have power to make zoning regulations to prevent the development taking place.

Under the minister's quality control plan, in which a comprehensive zone is established containing rigid development conditions, minimum lot size will be half an acre—but services must be established.

His conditions for approving the development, agreed to by the developer—Dean Park Estates Limited—include guaranteed water supply; sanitary sewage disposal; paved roads; storm drains and street lighting.

He believed the ridge site, along with others in the area, must have a quality control plan.

'CONCERNED'

At the same time, the chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board, Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay, said the group is "very concerned" about the subdivision's approval.

He pointed out the North Saanich Planning Report said leapfrog development should be avoided.

The board sent its planner, Tony Roberts, to public hearings to voice opposition to the subdivision.

DEFER DECISION

Speaking personally, and not as the board chairman, he said the only proper course for Mr. Campbell to take would be to defer a decision until North Saanich residents decided on incorporation.

If it was accepted that planning was good for the whole, then some individual rights must be limited.

The approval could set a dangerous precedent because of heavy land acquisition in the last few years.

All the planning done by the board now appeared to be wasted, "although I hope not."

Digging Started For $1.4 Million Federal Building

Construction of a $1,400,000 new federal building for Victoria has begun and should be completed within 14 months.

The two-storey building, on Vancouver Street between Pandora and Johnson, will house the income tax department and National Employment Service.

Excavation began today and is expected to take two to four weeks. Another two or three weeks will be required to drive in more than 100 supporting steel piles before the foundation is poured.

dropped at the request of a North Saanich Ratepayers' Council acting on behalf of property owners at large.

The general feeling of the council and residents at a public meeting earlier this month was that a vote on all four questions would lead to confusion.

If the vote is in favor of incorporation, North Saanich is expected to become a separate municipality early this fall.

McKINNON NAMED DEPUTY

F. S. "Pat" McKinnon has been appointed the new deputy minister of forests.

He replaces retiring R. G. McKee (who was recently appointed chairman of the British Columbia purchasing commission, a position left vacant when G. E. P. Jones, former chairman, was fired by special government order).

Mr. McKinnon has been chief forester in B.C. since 1959.

Taking over the vacant position of chief forester is L. F. Swannell, previously assistant chief forester in charge of operations.

John S. Stokes, now assistant chief forester in charge of planning, will assume new duties as assistant chief in charge of operations while Ian T. Cameron, district forester in Vancouver, takes over as assistant chief forester in charge of operations.

All appointments become effective July 1 with the exception of Mr. Cameron's move to the assistant chief forester spot. "We did not think it wise to move Mr. Cameron until the forest fire season, which looks like being a bad one, is over," Mr. Williston said. "He will move to Victoria as soon as the fire peak is over."

4 Islanders Chosen For Village

Four Vancouver Island delegates have been chosen to attend the Children's International Summer Village at Shawigan Lake this summer.

Chosen Saturday to represent southern Vancouver Island was Trudy Clark, 12, of 1711 Green Oaks Terrace, and Andrew Peter, 11, of 1259 Oliver.

Up-Island delegates chosen Saturday and Sunday were Trudy Walsh, 1023 Strathmore Street, Nanaimo, and Clair Denninger of Lake Cowichan.

10 COUNTRIES

The Vancouver Island children will be among 40 others from 10 countries who will be attending the summer village.

Children's International Summer Villages were first established in 1951 in Cincinnati and are now established in more than 35 countries on five continents.

ROOKIE POLICEMAN from Victoria was top marksman among recruits undergoing training at Vancouver Police Academy. He is Cst. Terry Toone, a son of Alderman A. W. Toone. He will return to city for duty at end of this week on completion of training course.

Ed Gilmore, secretary-manager of the B.C. Marketing Board, said potato prices will be reviewed within the next few days as new supplies start arriving for marketing.

GRADUAL

But he predicted only a slight price reduction.

"The long-range forecast is for prices to remain firm," he said. "There will be a gradual reduction, but prices will not drop as low as they were a year ago."

Prices climbed steadily in the past six weeks because of a shortage in B.C. and other potato-growing areas in North America.

In the last few months, B.C. has been mostly dependent on California supplies.

12-15c A POUND

Potatoes are retailing between 12 or 13 cents a pound, compared to seven cents last fall.

A 100-pound sack a year retailed for $3. Today U.S. imports sell at $8 a sack wholesale.

Starting Wednesday, the Vegetable Co-operative Association, Market Street, an agency of the marketing board, will start receiving supplies of earlies from local growers.

This year's shortage is due to three reasons:

1. Growers cut down on production last year because it did not pay. Prices were too low.

2. Weather conditions and disease caused widespread damage to crops in most parts of North America, further reducing supplies.

3. The demand for potatoes from the processing industry was heavier than usual.

AND NOW IT'S REALLY SUMMER

Summer came to Victoria at 7:56 a.m. today.

Feel warmer? If you do it's a psychological effect because 63 degrees is top of the mark according to the weatherman—"coolish for this time of year."

And if it was mainly sunny today it isn't expected to last. There will be increasing cloud Tuesday.

If you haven't had your holidays yet, get cracking. From now on it gets lighter later and darker sooner. But there still should be plenty of time to get a tan.

The sun that has seeped through to Victoria has been well above normal so far this year, which might indicate there's more to come.

Luckiest are those away from the waterfront where a 15-mile-per-hour breeze is capable of cooling the teapot.

Hospital Discussion Wednesday

A special meeting of Saanich council has been called for 5 p.m. Wednesday to discuss the planned provincial government Retarded Children's Hospital near Colquitz Jail.

The meeting, which is not expected to be open to the public, likely will provide the basis for further discussions between Saanich and the provincial government.

Last Friday, Saanich officials met with the public works department and a prime topic was disposal of sewage from the hospital.

The government has applied to discharge 90,000 gallons daily from a treatment plant into a tributary of Colquitz Creek, which flows into Portage Inlet.

There were 10 people there when the Times came. One man saluted gravely before the former Canadian flag, while the camera clicked.

"It's a question of dictatorship or freedom. We can't put up with it any longer," said Mr. Burnham in reference to the adoption of the Maple Leaf flag by Canada this year.

He said his Red Ensign Club members will raise funds for an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada aimed at having the flag change ruled unconstitutional.

Then at the next election, the Progressive Conservative party will be returned to office.

'IN HARMONY'

"They will restore the flag. They will never turn us down," said Mr. Burnham.

He said Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton "is in harmony with us." Mr. Chatterton has invited Mr. Burnham to a Tory rally tonight in honor of party leader John Diefenbaker.

"I hope to meet him." He also hopes to sign Mr. Chatterton into the club.

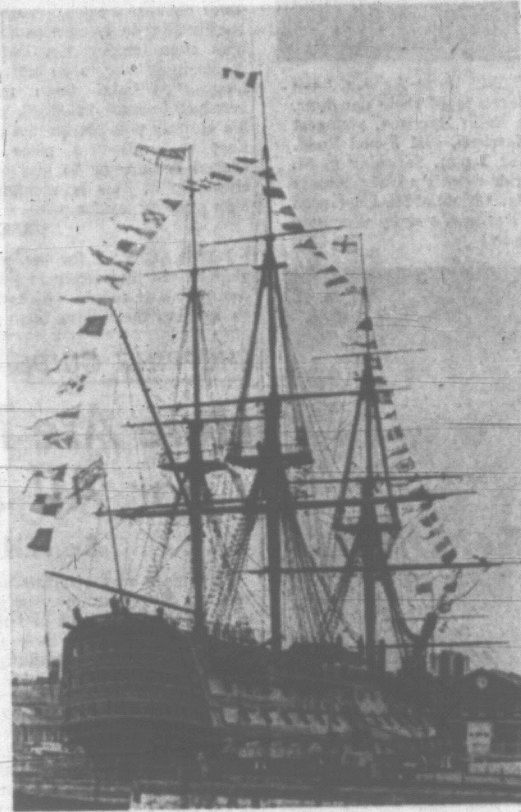

Mr. Burnham says he has 100 members in a mainland branch of his club and he's looking for another 100 here. He says the club is organized under the Societies Act. The $1 annual dues will go to education. Fifty cents goes to the branch and 50 cents to headquarters, he adds.

BY 1967

"Our centennial project is the restoration of the red ensign by 1967. You will see our club grow like a mushroom," said Mr. Burnham.

He said also that though he disagrees with adoption of the new flag, his club will break no laws, nor will he criticize the Queen for approving the change.

"I don't blame the Queen. I sent her a letter of condolences," he stated.

THE MAPLE LEAF NOT FOREVER?

Holding his flag aloft, George Burnham launched Victoria's Red Ensign Club in a second-floor room of Douglas Hotel here this morning.

Within 15 minutes of his arrival from Abbotsford he had signed up 20 members.

Five of them paid their $1 membership fee in advance.

Mr. Burnham's visit here had been announced Friday and red ensign adherents were waiting his arrival. They walked into his room behind him.

Potato Price To Drop Slightly

B.C.'s potato famine is nearly over and prices, the highest in years, are expected to drop slightly.

Bulk shipments from Vancouver Island plantations, which will start arriving on the market this week, will make the difference.

Ed Gilmore, secretary-manager of the B.C. Marketing Board, said potato prices will be reviewed within the next few days as new supplies start arriving for marketing.

GRADUAL

But he predicted only a slight price reduction.

"The long-range forecast is for prices to remain firm," he said. "There will be a gradual reduction, but prices will not drop as low as they were a year ago."

Prices climbed steadily in the past six weeks because of a shortage in B.C. and other potato-growing areas in North America.

Furniture To Cost $17,786

Opening of the Senior Citizens' Centre in Centennial Square will take place during the first week of August, it was decided today.

Centennial Square Committee recommended spending a total of $17,786 for furniture and equipment.

The committee decided not to call tenders for the job because of the delay it would involve. Instead they decided to recommend all the furniture and equipment be purchased from the suppliers that equipped the rebuilt City Hall.

Delays have already pushed the formal opening date ahead one month.

EXTERIOR SCREEN

The committee, headed by Ald. A. W. Toone, also decided to recommend to council that a contract be let to cover the renovated police station with $18,000 worth of exterior screen.

City manager Dennis Young told the committee if there were any further delays in letting the contract there might be an increase in costs.

In other committee business it was decided to ask council to approve spending $61,167 to furnish and equip the McPherson Restaurant in Centennial Square.

Committee decided to approve the expenditure on the recommendation of the city manager.

The original plan was for the city to provide only the non-essential equipment to establish the decor of the restaurant and the lessee would then be responsible for the major essential equipment.

'UNATTRACTIVE'

Mr. Young said in a report to the committee: "It has become evident that a venture directly controlled by a municipal corporation and is dependent upon the theatre's success is unattractive for a large private investment."

"Since most businessmen expect to write off their capital investment within the term of the lease as well as show a profit, the amount of money that could be prudently invested in the restaurant on a five-year lease basis is not sufficient to provide the essential equipment."

A further recommendation of the committee is that the restaurant be leased to Clifford Clarke, operator of the Coach and Four Restaurant.

ONE OF FIVE

Mr. Clarke's application was one of five considered.

The money for furnishing the restaurant is expected to come from three sources, a previous allocation of $7,500; $20,000 from the McPherson bequest and $3,667 from the tax sale lands fund.

Young Driver Breaks Jaw In Pole Crash

A 21-year-old driver suffered chest injuries and broke his jaw when his car hit a telephone pole at Shelbourne and McRae shortly after 3 Sunday morning.

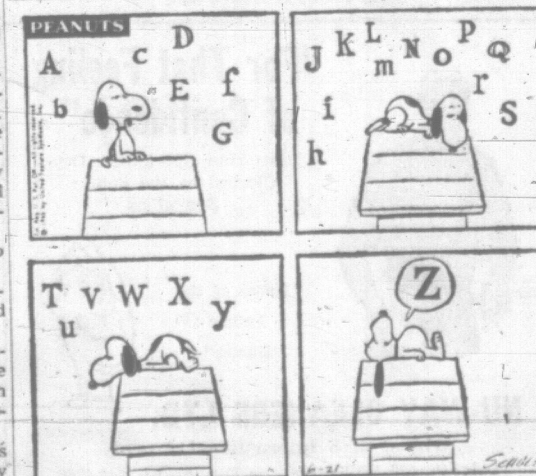

Frederick Carver, 2916 Queenston, is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Saanich police said his car was a total wreck. Damage is estimated at about $2,000.

An accident at Hillside and Rose Saturday night sent motorcyclist Kenneth Briggs, 18, of 1702 Newton, to hospital with a fractured thigh.

He is in good condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

City police said Briggs was in collision with a car driven by Stephen Russell, 3054 Carroll. Both vehicles were proceeding south on Rose at the time.

KOREA TREATY RIOT INJURES 90 POLICE

SEOUL (Reuters) — Ninety policemen were injured today battling some 9,000 students protesting the scheduled signing in Tokyo Tuesday of a treaty restoring normal diplomatic relations between Japan and South Korea.

Almost 600 students and 16 other demonstrators were arrested by police firing tear-gas grenades and swinging clubs.

The street demonstrations were the biggest since similar protests over the treaty last April.

Youths Riot In Algiers Against Coup

ALGIERS (AP) — Crowds of youths took to the streets in Algiers today to demonstrate in favor of deposed president Ahmed Ben Bella. Troops and police were rushed to the city's centre.

Soldiers fired shots in the air to disperse the crowd which chanted "Viva Ben Bella!" and "Ya-hyuh (long live) Ben Bella!"

Special riot troops of the security police were called out to bolster troops. Some demonstrators were arrested and hustled away.

Nearly 1,000 youths demonstrated Sunday night but were quickly broken up.

For many hours today foreign correspondents were unable to send dispatches out of Algiers.

HELD IN ARMY CAMP

The demonstrators were not all students. Some veiled Moslem women were among them, shrilly crying out for Ben Bella, who is reported held in an army camp near the city.

The government of Col. Houari Boumediene, announced the Afro-Asian conference would open as scheduled in Algiers June 29. A preparatory foreign ministers' meeting is set for Thursday.

All sports events and public gatherings were banned, including an international soccer match between Algeria and the Brazilian world champions.

Reuters news agency said travellers arriving in Algiers reported hearing shooting for several hours Sunday in Oran, western Algeria. Telephone lines with the city were cut and no more details were available.

Boumediene held a secret session with his ruling revolutionary council Sunday. One of the topics probably discussed was Ben Bella's fate.

The new government has denounced Ben Bella as a "traitor."

Navy Divers Capture Abandoned TNT Ship

By RON SUDLOW

Part-time navy divers, in a daring swim, tamed a bucking, bouncing munitions-laden ship which was abandoned two days earlier off Tofino.

The saga of the CNAV Laymore ended in a sheltered bay here Sunday because of the daring swim by the divers.

And for the navy, today was "pretty well routine" as unloading of the auxiliary vessel's cargo of ammunition commenced.

The five-man diving team, under leadership of Lieut. Terry Milne, 26, of 125, Sea Drive, Brentwood, dropped over the side of destroyer-escort HMCS Mackenzie Saturday night. Laymore, by this time, had drifted 65 miles south of Cape Flattery and was less than 30 miles from land.

ROCKING VIOLENTLY

She was still rocking violently in the 20-foot swells and her decks were awash. But the wind had dropped.

Cmdr. H. J. Wade ordered the warship to pass within 100 yards of the wallowing Laymore—still loaded with 149 tons of obsolete naval ammunition.

The Mackenzie had been standing by the auxiliary vessel ever since it came to aid in the rescue of its 17-man crew Thursday evening.

A boat crew and a diving team had been standing by ready to get a line to the disabled ship for more than two days.

The divers got the call when the wind abated Saturday evening. Other members of the team were AB Andy Stearn, AB Ray Cleugh, PO Alexander Roger and Sub-Lieut. Bruce Johnston.

"Our weather reports indicated more storms for the area," Lieut. Milne said.

Stonehill 'Private Eye' Charged With Prowling

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police Sunday charged a man who said he was a private detective with trespassing by night outside the home of American millionaire Harry S. Stonehill.

Police identified the man as Richard Harry Riggins, 29, who told court officials he was from Seattle, Wash.

Bail was set at $500. Riggins was scheduled to appear in court today.

Interviewed on his release, Riggins said: "You've got the wrong man."

He was charged at the request of Mrs. Stonehill after he was taken before her by a private, uniformed patrolman who spotted him in a hedge-row outside the Stonehill home.

John Taylor, lawyer for Mrs. Stonehill, said in an interview Sunday the patrolman was hired to protect the $125,000 home.

Police later seized a camera equipped with a high-powered telescopic lens.

Mr. Taylor said Mrs. Stonehill was holding a dinner party for her sister and friends when a man was spotted peering at them through their open drapes.

Stonehill figured prominently in the "Dear Hal" letter that sent Al Williamson, a Vancouver public relations man, to jail on forgery charges.

The letter, purportedly signed by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, sought consideration for Stonehill, who had applied for landed immigrant status in Canada.

He was subsequently denied such status and entered the U.S., where he now faces smuggling charges.

Stonehill amassed his fortune in the Philippines immediately after the Second World War.

All Bright Except For Buses

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority today reported net income of $13,162,522 for the year ending March 31, an increase of $4,300,000 over the previous year.

The annual report released here today showed increased profits in everything but the Hydro's urban transit system.

Gross revenue for the year was $153,307,283, up $13,674,482 from the year before.

Hydro co-chairmen H. L. Keenleyside and Gordon M. Shrum said in the report the year was one of "notable activity, progress and achievement in keeping with and contributing to the dynamic growth of the provincial economy."

The report was forwarded to the Governor-General, signed by Premier Bennett as "prime minister."

The co-chairmen said demand for power was up 14.2 per cent last year, compared with an average annual increase of 7.6 per cent in the five preceding years.

Rate cuts announced March 30 will save consumers $7,100,000 a year, said the report.

THREE YEARS

Reductions made in the last three years "have saved the customers . . . $30,000,000 (since 1962) and savings will continue at the rate of more than $20,000,000 annually," it said.

The report said gross revenue on the urban transport system operated in Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver was $11,892,333, up 7.5 per cent from the year before.

A fare increase effective Jan. 1 was credited for the increase, along with "increased patronage attributable to bad weather in the winter months."

A statement issued with the annual report said B.C. Hydro expects to lose about $2,000,000 annually on the transit system, even with increased fares.

Mission Ignores Rebuff by Reds

LONDON (UPI)—The proposed Viet Nam peace team of the Commonwealth prime ministers pressed plans today for its mission despite snubs from China and North Viet Nam.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai Sunday called the mission a "manoeuvre in support of the United States peace talk hoax."

The Hanoi government said it was aimed at carrying out "a peaceful negotiation swindle."

NO OFFICIAL REPLIES

A spokesman for the mission said messages have been sent to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Washington proposing in detail the timetable for visits by the mission.

He noted that official replies have not been received from any of the governments involved.

Diplomatic sources here said that if China delivers an official rejection, Wilson will attempt to get China's reasons on the public record.

Kanester on Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — The trial of Larry Kenneth Kanester, 26, on a charge of rape of a University of Victoria student, opened in Assize Court here today before Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan.

Gary Player Leads Open

ST. LOUIS — South African Gary Player was four up on Australian Kel Nagle at the end of 17 holes in the playoff today for the United States open golf championships.

Barring unforeseen developments he appeared certain of winning the title. After 17, the scores were: Player, even par; Nagle, four over par.

Detective Slain

MACON, Ga. (AP) — A man arrested and charged with attempting to cash a fraudulent cheque shot and killed a detective today and wounded at least one other officer.

Ferrara Booked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers outfielder Al Ferrara, 24, was booked on suspicion of drunken driving Sunday night when two policemen said his car nearly swerved into them.

Saturday night swam through 20-foot swells and timed waves to drop them on decks of wallowing Laymore which left here under tow to Clifton Wednesday but was caught in violent storm.

HODGE-PODGE of mortar bombs in hold of Laymore was seen Sunday when ship was towed to Rocky Point after four days of relentless pounding by towering seas and gales reaching up to 70 m.p.h.

Her 17-man crew was forced to take to life raft when towline to Clifton parted and rudder jammed. She had no power as her engines were being prepared for conversion to oceanographic vessel.

Navy Divers Capture Abandoned TNT Ship

By RON SUDLOW

Part-time navy divers, in a daring swim, tamed a bucking, bouncing munitions-laden ship which was abandoned two days earlier off Tofino.

The saga of the CNAV Laymore ended in a sheltered bay here Sunday because of the daring swim by the divers.

And for the navy, today was "pretty well routine" as unloading of the auxiliary vessel's cargo of ammunition commenced.

The five-man diving team, under leadership of Lieut. Terry Milne, 26, of 728 Sea Drive, Brentwood, dropped over the side of destroyer-escort HMCS Mackenzie Saturday night.

Laymore, by this time, had drifted 65 miles south of Cape Flattery and was less than 30 miles from land.

ROCKING VIOLENTLY

She was still rocking violently in the 20-foot swells and her decks were awash. But the wind had dropped.

Cmndr. H. J. Wade ordered the warship to pass within 100 yards of the wallowing Laymore—still loaded with 149 tons of obsolete naval ammunition.

The Mackenzie had been standing by the auxiliary vessel ever since it came to aid in the rescue of its 17-man crew Thursday evening.

A boat crew and a diving team had been standing by ready to get a line to the disabled ship for more than two days.

The divers got the call when the wind abated Saturday evening. Other members of the team were AB Andy Stearn, AB Ray Cleugh, PO Alexander Roger and Sub-Lieut. Bruce Johnston.

"Our weather reports indicated more storms for the area," Lieut. Milne said.

WIRE BRIEFS

Player Leads Nagle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A hot putter sent Gary Player of South Africa into a five-stroke lead over Kel Nagle of Australia today after nine holes of their 18-hole playoff for the United States open golf championship.

New Russ Space Test

Transit Strike Over

Polish Leader Ill

WARSAW (UPI)—Polish Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka is "gravely ill," Western diplomatic sources said today.

More Bridges Bombed

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. and South Vietnamese planes pounded bridges, barracks and other targets in North Viet Nam today. In the ground fighting, 27 government troops and 20 Viet Cong were killed in four sharp clashes, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

Th' peace mission seems t' hev a piece missin'.

KOREA TREATY RIOT INJURES 90 POLICE

SEOUL (Reuters) — Ninety policemen were injured today battling some 9,000 students protesting the scheduled signing in Tokyo Tuesday of a treaty restoring normal diplomatic relations between Japan and South Korea.

Almost 600 students and 16 other demonstrators were arrested by police firing tear-gas grenades and swinging clubs.

The street demonstrations were the biggest since similar protests over the treaty last April.

Youths Riot In Algiers Against Coup

ALGIERS (AP) — Crowds of youths took to the streets in Algiers today to demonstrate in favor of deposed president Ahmed Ben Bella. Troops and police were rushed to the city's centre.

Soldiers fired shots in the air to disperse the crowd which chanted "Viva Ben Bella!" and "Ya-hyuh (long live) Ben Bella!"

Special riot troops of the security police were called out to bolster troops. Some demonstrators were arrested and hustled away.

Nearly 1,000 youths demonstrated Sunday night but were quickly broken up.

For many hours today foreign correspondents were unable to send dispatches out of Algiers. Troops appeared in today's demonstration for the first time since a pre-dawn coup Saturday unseated Ben Bella.

HELD IN ARMY CAMP

The demonstrators were not all students. Some veiled Moslem women were among them, shrilly crying out for Ben Bella, who is reported held in an army camp near the city.

The government of Col. Houari Boumedienne, announced the Afro-Asian conference would open as scheduled in Algiers June 29. A preparatory foreign ministers' meeting is set for Thursday.

All sports events and public gatherings were banned, including an international soccer match between Algeria and the Brazilian world champions.

HEARD SOME SHOOTING

Reuters news agency said travellers arriving in Algiers reported hearing shooting for several hours Sunday in Oran, western Algeria. Telephone lines with the city were cut and no more details were available.

Boumedienne held a secret session with his ruling revolutionary council Sunday. One of the topics probably discussed was Ben Bella's fate.

The new government has denounced Ben Bella as a "dis-

Dorion Report Leak in Press To Be Probed

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP has been ordered to make a preliminary investigation into a purported leak of the Dorion report, Acting Prime Minister Martin announced today.

He told the Commons the government ordered the inquiry after discussing the situation with Chief Justice Frederic Dorion, the Quebec Superior Court justice who is preparing the report of his investigation into allegations of attempted bribery and influence-peddling against federal ministerial aides.

The RCMP inquiry, to be made in co-operation with Chief Justice Dorion, will attempt to discover whether a breakdown in security arrangements covering preparation and printing of the report led to an Ottawa dispatch Friday by George Brimble, Southern New Services reporter.

Mr. Martin said he asked Chief Justice Dorion himself to LONDON (UPI)—The proposed Viet Nam peace team of the Commonwealth prime ministers pressed plans today for its mission despite snubs from China and North Viet Nam.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai Sunday called the mission a "manoeuvre in support of the United States peace talk hoax." The Hanoi government said it was aimed at carrying out "a peaceful negotiation swindle."

Prime Minister Harold Wilson planned to meet later with his fellow mission members—Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Balewa of Nigeria, Dr. Eric Williams of Trinidad and Tobago and Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah—to discuss the hostile reaction.

NO OFFICIAL REPLIES

A spokesman for the mission said messages have been sent to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Washington proposing in detail the timetable for visits by the mission.

He noted that official replies have not been received from any of the governments involved.

Diplomatic sources here said that if China delivers an official rejection, Wilson will attempt to get China's reasons on the public record.

None of the four delegates representing members of the mission at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference here would comment on what would happen if the mission is rebuffed.

But it is generally believed that it would at least go to Geneva to discuss the outcome with United Nations Secretary-General Thant.

It was hoped that official replies to the mission messages would be received before the Commonwealth conference ends on Friday so that the mission could spell out its plans.

JOINT MESSAGE

It is believed the peace mission might also receive a joint Commonwealth message to take to the five capitals.

The New China news agency described Britain's Prime Minister Wilson as a "nitwit" in a bitter attack.

Chou En-lai Sunday night ridiculed the mission and said it was doomed to "ignominious failure."

Chou said in Cairo that because Britain supported U.S. policy in Viet Nam, the mission was just a "manoeuvre in support of the U.S. peace talk hoax."

BLAST AT DINNER

Chou's remarks came at a dinner hosted by United Arab Republic President Nasser.

"This is not the first time that Britain has engaged in such activities, which are diametrically opposed to the position explicitly set forth again and again by the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front (Viet Cong)," he declared.

'MET WITH FAILURE'

"Such actions in the past have met with ignominious failure and will not fare any better in the future."

(In London, British newspapers said the rejection by the Asian Reds would torpedo the Commonwealth proposal. "It now seems certain that further preparations will be called off," one newspaper said.)

The North Vietnamese statement rejecting the mission was entitled: "Wilson, a wilful aide of Johnson."

16 Injured In Cafe Blast

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — At least 16 persons were injured, two critically, after a basement explosion tore through the floor of a highway restaurant Sunday night, about 12 miles south of here.

In critical condition in Toronto at the Hospital for Sick Children are Catherine Little, 14, of Hamilton, and her sister Sain, 13. They had burns to 80 per cent of their bodies.

Canada Gov't Gives $4 Million to U.N.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada

pledged $4,000,000 today to the United Nations to help restore the solvency of the world body.

External Affairs Minister Martin coupled the pledge in the Commons with the statement that he doesn't exclude the possibility of a supplementary voluntary contribution.

"The Canadian government's pledge is made without prejudice to our support for the policy of collective financial responsibility for duly authorized peacekeeping operations," Mr. Martin said.

The UN now is in debt by more than $100,000,000 because of refusal of some UN members to pay their assessed share of peacekeeping costs.

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government has pledged a sum equivalent to $10,000,000 to help the United Nations finances and peacekeeping arrangements, it was announced today.

Hydro Shows Gain In All But Transit

VANCOUVER (CP)—Increased profits in everything but its urban transit system are listed in the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority annual report.

The report, released here today, said B.C. Hydro's gross revenue for the year ending March 31 was $153,307,283—up $13,674,482 from the year before.

Hydro co-chairmen H. L. Keenleyside and Gordon M. Shrum said in the report the year was one of "notable activity, progress and achievement in keeping with and contributing to the dynamic growth of the provincial economy."

Free-Loading Guests Really Load Up!

VANCOUVER (CP)—The confetti had hardly settled and the honeymoon was barely over when the bride and groom discovered that a few of their wedding guests were thieves.

John and Ann Wihksen returned from their honeymoon Saturday and discovered about 120 of their 150 wedding presents were missing.

The groom said his and his wife's family had arranged to transport the gifts from the reception to the couple's home.

"People in five different cars began to load up presents," he said.

"Three of the cars got where they were supposed to be. The other two, which carried most of the presents, didn't."

"I think what happened is that each side of the family thought the thieves belonged to the other side."

"People who saw them said they were dressed up and looked like they belonged."

OFFICIAL COUNT: FOUR COD

TYEE, STEELIES STAY AWAY FROM POLLS

Good Grief! Dief the Chief Fails Again

By PETE LOUDON
All the returns are in and the official count is over and John Diefenbaker didn't make it.
The famed tyee of Campbell River wouldn't take the bait for Dief the Chief.

Neither would the steelhead. He made some gains in cod-fish areas. But in the piscatorial parliament, cod still are looked upon as a splinter group.

FOUR COD
Opposition Leader Diefenbaker arrived at Campbell River late Saturday, checked into Painter's Lodge and had time for two hours of pre-dark fishing.

He got four cod.
"We've been bothered by wind trouble," said guide Mike Rippingale.

Mr. Rippingale explained that he took the Diefenbaker party out again Sunday morning, but again the bite was off.

Later Sunday, desperate Campbell River boosters flew their guest to the steelhead waters to the west. Again nothing.

This morning Mr. Diefenbaker said he had some work to do. So he stayed home while we took his party out in three boats. Each boat got a fish. One boat got two," said Mr. Rippingale sadly.

"We went back for him and we went out again. But it was too late."

The guide said they had been fishing deep for the big springs. "Maybe we would have done better to concentrate on coho."

The score for Dief's party: one 13-lb. spring, one eight-lb.

He's Going To Get The Needle!

DUNCAN — Richard Meyer, only boy in Cowichan 4-H Sewing Club, Saturday night was presented with the group's outstanding achievement award. The Stevenson Cup for highest project score went to his sister, Alison, at the club's annual banquet and achievement night.

Other awards were presented to Claire Elyford, public speaking; Maureen Hogan, demonstration; Sylvie Meyer and Donna Forsley, attendance; Karen Eddy, committee management, and Barbara Boys, stock judging.

Other members who received awards for their projects were Karen MacEwan, Eileen Meyer, Susan Paradis, Shirley Elyford, Rosemary MacEwan and Donna Chambers.

Club president Sylvia Meyer presented district agriculturalist Ken Jameson with a $20 cheque for the Bill Alendal 4-H scholarship fund.

MAINLANDER NEGOTIATES FOR LEADER

DUNCAN — Negotiations are nearly completed for the sale of the weekly Cowichan Leader and the daily Prince Rupert News; publisher John Magor said today.

He said nothing has been decided at the moment but he anticipated an announcement shortly.

Prince George Citizen publisher W. B. Milner, of Vancouver, has options to buy both newspapers.

A spokesman for Mr. Milner said the publisher also is interested in buying the Cariboo Observer, Quesnel's weekly paper.

If all three papers are bought, Margaret (Ma) Murray, the outspoken editor of the Bridge River-Lillooet News, may write a syndicated column, he added.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTREX on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No runny, goopy, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTREX at any drug counter. Advt.

Our brewmaster kilns a special hardy malt, because this is what his celebrated 1882 lager recipe demands. Every mellow drop of Labatt's has a lion's share of good beer flavour. You'll like it.

Today's beers are light beers. Labatt's is light beer with muscles.

SPCA Essay Winners Get Prizes

Ten girls and two boys received prizes Saturday afternoon for their essays on the care of pets.

They were the winners of a city-wide essay contest promoted by the SPCA in Greater Victoria schools. Prizes were presented at the society's new animal shelter at Napier and Burnside.

Norman Cribbens of The Victoria Times and Don Galt of The Daily Colonist were judges and presented awards.

Nine years and under—1. Delver Connors, Lampson Street School; 2. Kathryn Haley, St. Patrick's; 3. Teresa Morris, St. Patrick's.

Fourteen and under—1. Donna Wing, North Ward; 2. Christine Kintoff, Oaklands Elementary; 3. Monica Thistle, St. Patrick's.

Fifteen to 18—1. Jani Padgett, Esquimalt Senior High; 2. Diana Ingram, Oak Bay Senior High; 3. Barbara Mander, St. Ann's Academy.

Capt. Douglas Prentice, president of Victoria SPCA, and D. H. Beeching, secretary-manager, thanked the judges and Mrs. Nora Foster, convener of the contest.

TOURED SHELTER
Members and friends then toured the new shelter, which was opened May 1 by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

Michael Mirriams-Harrison, vice-president, revealed that Victoria SPCA found homes for 693 dogs in 1964. During the same period 677 injured animals were treated and 650 ambulance calls answered.

Capt. Prentice said Victoria SPCA now has 600 members, but more are needed.

Local Briefs

First addition to Victoria city's fleet of mini-cars will cost $1,513.05.

The city called for tenders to supply a miniature car for its inspection division, rather than pay an increase in car allowance asked by an inspector who has been using his own car.

Bids were opened by council and referred to the finance committee for recommendation. Plimley's offered to supply a two-door Austin A50 for $1,513.05.

Willow School PTA has elected its new slate of officers: Stuart B. Smith, president; Jim Williams and K. S. Hum, vice-presidents; Mrs. R. A. Phillips, secretary; Mrs. R. M. MacKinnon, treasurer.

The bowling group of the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded will hold its final session tonight at 7:30.

Composed of retarded children over 12 years, the event will be held in the Capital City Bowl-drome, 966 Yates. Parents have been invited to attend.

Kenneth E. Rennie of Montreal has been elected president of the Certified General Accountant Association.

First vice-president is F. N. Hoar, Fredericton, N.B.; second vice-president, J. S. Dow, Toronto; third vice-president, J. E. Spry, Vancouver, and secretary-treasurer, Professor J. E. Finnie, Montreal. William T. Mann, Victoria, is the immediate past president.

The accountants are meeting at the Empress Hotel.
